

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

AND EQUITY CASES," "SELF-PREPARATION FOR THE FINAL EXAMINATION," "SELF-PREPARATION

LONDON :
BRADBURY, AGNEW, & CO., PRINTERS, WHITEFRIARS.

PREFACE TO FIFTH EDITION.

---

IN this Edition I have not considered it advisable to insert any fresh principal cases, though I have at various places given recent important and useful decisions in the notes which I have also often been obliged to slightly add to. I have also inserted any necessary recent statutes. In what I have done I have endeavoured to keep the work down in size as much as possible. A separate list of cases referred to, which I have now given after the Index of chief cases, will serve with the Index to show at a glance all the cases epitomised and referred to.

22, CHANCERY LANE, W.C.

January, 1882.

PREFACE TO FOURTH EDITION.

---

I HAVE not in this Edition considered it necessary to introduce any new principal case, but have in various places added to the notes where necessary from changes in the law or appearing in any way advisable. I have also from this Edition omitted the case of Doraston v. Payne as on consideration it appeared to me that this might very well be done.

To avoid repeating the same remarks here, I would refer the student to the Preface to the Third Edition of my 'Leading Conveyancing and Equity Cases.'

22, CHANCERY LANE, W.C.

November, 1877.

PREFACE TO THIRD EDITION.

---

A THIRD Edition of this small work having been called for, the Compiler has gone carefully through it, and after considering a number of recent cases, has only deemed it advisable, bearing in mind the original intent, to add one, viz., that of Currie v. Misa. He has also in a few places made some alterations and additions to the notes, and trusts the book will continue to meet with that approbation it has hitherto received.

22, CHANCERY LANE, W.C.

September, 1875.

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION.

---

IN preparing this Edition the Compiler, acting on the experience gained in reading with his own pupils of what would prove useful to them, and also acting on suggestions made to him, has in various places considerably enlarged the notes to the cases, though still keeping strictly to his original intent of making them very concise. He has only considered it advisable to add one principal case, viz., that of Lumley v. Gye, on damages, and he has entirely re-written the note on this important subject, endeavouring in it to give some of the most important rules from Mr. Mayne's valuable 'Treatise on Damages,' which he trusts will be found useful. Acting also on suggestions made to him that it would make this little work more acceptable, particularly to non-students, he has in every case added the reference to the original reports in addition to 'Smith's Leading Cases;' and for the particular use of students blank spaces are left for the purpose of making MS. notes and additions.

April, 1874.

PREFACE.

---

THE Compiler of this small volume while reading for his Final Examination, devoted some time to the study of Leading Cases, and it long ago occurred to him that—many articulated clerks not having sufficient time to fully peruse the large volumes of ‘Leading Cases’—a short Epitome, giving those decisions most important to be read and remembered, would be very useful to them. Besides this, he has long thought that an Epitome might be equally, if not more useful, to those who attentively read the large volumes, for they can, after having done so, speedily run through a small manual like the present and impress the chief decisions on their memories. This Epitome professes to nothing particularly original, for it is indeed but an abridgment of the chief decisions in ‘Smith’s Leading Cases,’ with some few additional ones, and some short notes bearing directly on the different decisions. The facts of the different cases are given when they could be shortly stated, and when they seemed to be of a character likely to serve to impress the decision on the student's memory.

It is sincerely hoped that this Epitome will be found useful for the purpose for which it is intended, viz., as a help to the reading of 'Smith's Leading Cases.'

J. I.

February, 1873.

TWYNNE'S CASE.

(3 Coke, 80.)

INFORMATION against Twynne, for making and publishing a fraudulent gift of goods. Pierce was indebted to Twynne in £400, and to C. in £200. Pending an action by C. against Pierce, Pierce, being possessed of goods to the value of £300, by deed of gift conveyed them to Twynne in satisfaction of his debt, but Pierce continued in possession of the goods. C. obtained judgment against Pierce, and issued a fi. fa., and Twynne resisted execution.

Resolved:—That the gift was fraudulent within 13 Eliz. c. 5, on the following grounds:—

1. The gift was perfectly general.
2. The donor continued in possession.
3. It was made in secret.
4. It was made pending the writ.

5. There was a trust between the parties, and fraud is always clothed with a trust.

6. The deed contained that the gift was honestly and truly made, which was an inconsistent clause.

Notes.—The rule under the statute of 13 Eliz. c. 5, is that all gifts and conveyances of either chattels or of land made for the purpose of defeating or delaying creditors are void against them unless made upon a valuable consideration and bonâ fide to some person without notice of the fraud, and it should be observed that this rule applies not only to creditors to whom the person is indebted at the time, but also immediately afterwards to such an extent that he has not sufficient exclusive of the property so disposed of to pay such debts. Of course, although a conveyance may be fraudulent under the statute, yet as between the parties themselves it may be good. The above case was not decided on the ground that there was no consideration, for the debt was a sufficient consideration, but on the ground that it was not bonâ fide. A debtor has a right to prefer one creditor to another, but he must do so openly, for the law will not allow a creditor to make use of his demand to shelter the debtor, and while he leaves him in statu quo by forbearing to enforce the assignment, to defeat the other creditors by insisting on it. It may be observed that the enactments contained in 13 Eliz. c. 5, are simply declaratory of the Common Law.

In questions as to voluntary conveyances there are three statutes upon which the answer may depend, firstly, the above statute, by which the voluntary conveyance may be bad as being fraudulent; secondly, the 27 Eliz. c. 4, by which all voluntary conveyances of land are void against subsequent purchasers for value; and thirdly, the Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 91, by which a voluntary settlement made by a trader is void if he becomes bankrupt within two years, and if he becomes bankrupt after that time, but within ten years, also void, unless the parties claiming under such settlement can prove that the settlor was at the time of making it able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in such settlement.

A very extreme instance of a settlement being held bad within 13 Eliz. c. 5, is to be found in the case of Ex parte Stephens, re Pearson, L. R. 3 Ch. Div. 807. In that case John Pearson (who was not then a trader) in the year 1858 made a voluntary settlement of £1000 for himself for life or until bankruptcy, and after his decease, for his wife for her life and then for the children of the marriage. Afterwards, viz., in 1875, he was adjudicated bankrupt. It was held that notwithstanding the lapse of so long a time the settlement was void as being a fraud against creditors.

The setting aside of a settlement as fraudulent and bad under 13 Eliz. c. 5, must not be confused with the provisions as to voluntary settlements contained in the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. That is an entirely distinct thing, it being there absolutely enacted that any voluntary settlement made by a trader shall be void if he become bankrupt within two years; and if he becomes bankrupt after that time but within ten years it shall also be void unless the parties claiming under such settlement can prove that the settlor was at the time of making it able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in such settlement (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71, sect. 91).

A disposition of a man's goods otherwise than by delivery is ordinarily termed a Bill of Sale, an instrument which is now in various particulars governed by the Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31). Under that Act every Bill of Sale must be attested by a solicitor of the Supreme Court, and the attestation must state that before execution its effect has been explained to the grantor by the attesting solicitor. An affidavit of due execution must be made and the Bill of Sale registered and affidavit filed in the central office of the High Court of Justice within seven days, and this registration must be renewed every five years, otherwise it becomes void. It has been held that if the formalities proscribed by the Act are not observed the effect is not to render the instrument absolutely void, but only bad as against execution creditors and trustees in bankruptcy and liquidation proceedings and under assignments for the benefit of creditors. (Davis v. Goodman, L. R. 5 C. P. Div. 128).

* Questions of whether a Bill of Sale is fraudulent and void most frequently arise in the bankruptcy of the giver. Of course if he is a trader and it has been given within the periods of two and ten years before referred to it is unnecessary to look beyond the very absolute and definite provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869 ; but in other cases the point can only be determined by reference to and on the foundation of the provisions of 13 Eliz. c. 5. To avoid a transaction under that statute an intent to defeat, hinder, and delay, creditors should be either expressly proved, or be capable of being inferred from all the surrounding circumstances (Baldwin's Bankruptcy, 2nd edition, 39). If an assignment includes substantially the whole of the debtor's property, and there is no fair present equivalent, or if it is entirely for a past debt then it is generally speaking always bad under this statute. (Ib. 41—46).

DUMPORE'S CASE.(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 47.)(4 Coke, 119.)*

Decided:—That where there is a covenant not to alien without license, and that license is once given, the license applies to all future acts of a like nature, so that no alienation afterwards, though without license, is a breach of the covenant.

Notes.—The following was the practical working of the extraordinary doctrine laid down in this case :—A. makes a lease to B., who covenants not to assign without the license of A. A. grants a license to B. to assign to C., and afterwards, notwithstanding the covenant, the term can be assigned to any one. The ground of the doctrine was that every condition of re-entry is entire and indivisible, and the condition, having been waived once, could not be enforced again. Recent legislation has altered this doctrine, it being enacted by 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, s. 1, that every such license shall, unless otherwise expressed, extend only to the permission actually given, or the actual matter thereby specifically authorised to be done, unless otherwise specified. The subject of an actual waiver of a covenant—e.g., where a landlord knowing of a breach of covenant received rent—may here be noticed, for which the above enactment did not provide. An actual waiver of a breach of a covenant destroyed the condition of re-entry ; but 23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, s. 6, enacts that any actual waiver of a breach of covenant taking place after the passing of that Act (23rd July, 1860), shall not be deemed to extend to any breach of covenant or condition other than that to which such waiver shall specially relate, nor to be a general waiver of the benefit of any such covenant or condition, unless an intention to that effect shall appear.

SPENCER'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 68.)

(5 Coke, 16.)

This was an action of covenant by the lessors of certain property against the assignees thereof, for not building a wall upon the property as the original lessee had covenanted to do. The principal discussion in the case was as to what covenants would run with the land, and the following were the chief points decided :

1. That where the covenant extends to a thing in esse parcel of the demise, the covenant is appurtenant to the thing demised, and binds the assignee without express words, as if the lessee covenants to repair the house demised to him, during the term ; but not so, if the thing is not in being at the time of the demise.

2. That where the lessee covenants for himself "and his assigns," to do some act upon the thing demised, though not in existence at the time of the demise, there, forasmuch as it is to be done upon the land demised, that binds the assignee.

3. But even though the lessee covenant for himself "and his assigns," yet if the thing to be done be merely collateral to the land, and does not in any way touch or concern the thing demised, there the assignee cannot be charged.

Notes.—This case shews the nature of the covenants which will run with the land, by which is meant those covenants as to which either the liability to perform them, or the right to take advantage of them, passes to the assignee of the land. The better opinion is that at common law covenants ran with the land, but not with the reversion, which rule proceeded upon the doctrine that though an estate could be assigned a contract could not ; so that, for instance, if a lessee covenanted to keep his house in repair, and the lessor then sold, he could not assign the benefit of the covenant, so that on breach of covenant by tenant the new landlord could not bring an action in his own name, but all he could do would be to obtain permission from the original lessor to bring it in his name. Of course this is no longer so, for the statute of 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, whilst confirming the common law, that the benefit of covenants relating to the land entered into by the lessor will pass to the assignee, alters the common law by enabling the assignee of the reversion to take advantage of the covenants entered into by the lessee with the lessor from whom such assignee claims.

The reason of the passing of the statute of 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, was that at the time of the Reformation, when a large part of the Church lands fell into lay hands, the inconvenience of the law attracted notice, for it pressed hardly on the grantees from the Crown of the lands of the dissolved monasteries, and whilst the enactment was specially created for their benefit it was also made to apply to the whole public. (Elphinstone's 'Conveyancing,' pp. 228, 231.)

The Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), with regard to leases made after 1 January, 1882, also contains provisions on this subject which are no doubt intended to enlarge the provisions of the above-mentioned old statute. The enactments referred to are as follows :—"Rent reserved by a lease and the benefit of every covenant or provision therein contained, having reference to the subject matter thereof, and on the lessee's part to be observed and performed, and every condition of re-entry and other conditions therein contained, shall be annexed and incident to, and shall go with the reversionary estate in the land, or in any part thereof, immediately expectant on the term granted by the lease, notwithstanding severance of that reversionary estate, and shall be capable of being recovered, reclaimed, enforced, and taken advantage of by the person from time to time entitled, subject to the term, to the income of the whole or any part, as the case may require, of the land leased." (Sect. 10.) "The obligation of a covenant entered into by a lessor with reference to the subject matter of the lease shall, if and as far as the lessor has power to bind the reversionary estate immediately expectant on the term granted by the lease, be annexed and incident to and shall go with that reversionary estate, or the several parts thereof, notwithstanding severance of the reversionary estate, and may be taken advantage of and enforced by the person in whom the term is from time to time vested by conveyance, devolution in law, or otherwise, and if and as far as the lessor has power to bind the person from time to time entitled to that reversionary estate, the obligation aforesaid may be taken advantage of and enforced against any person so entitled." (Sect. 11.)

As to covenants running with the land in other cases than those between landlord and tenant. Those made with the owner of the land to which they relate may be taken advantage of by each successive transferee of the land to which they relate, provided he be in of the same estate as the original covenantee was ; but as to those entered into by the owner of the land to which they relate, it seems they do not run with the land, but bind only the original covenantor, for if they bound transferees, they would frequently find themselves liable on contracts of which they were ignorant, and which would, if they had known of them, have deterred them from purchasing.

SEMARYNE'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 114.)

(5 Coke, 91.)

The following were the most important points resolved in this case :—

1. It is not lawful for the sheriff at the suit of a common person, to break the defendant's house to execute process, but if a defendant flies to or removes his goods to another man's house, the privilege does not extend to protect him there, and, after denial on request made, the sheriff may break the house.

2. In all cases where the king is party the sheriff may break the defendant's house, after request to open the doors.

3. Where a house is recovered in a real action, the sheriff may break the house to deliver possession.

Notes.—It must be remembered that although the sheriff is justified in entering a third party's house to execute process of the law upon defendant or his property, yet if it happen that defendant be not there, or have no property there, the sheriff is a trespasser. When the sheriff has once obtained entry he can break open the inner doors, and where a defendant after arrest escapes, the sheriff may break his house, or the house of any person to which he escapes, to retake him.

It may be useful to state here the law as to arrest and imprisonment under "The Debtors Act, 1869," 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62. The effect of this statute is to abolish imprisonment for debt except in the following six cases :—

1. Default in payment of a penalty not arising out of contract.
2. Default in payment of sums recoverable summarily before a justice.

10 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

3. Default by trustees, &c., in paying sums as ordered by Chancery.

4. Default in payment by solicitors of sums ordered to be paid by them as such.

5. Default in payment of a sum ordered to be set aside by a debtor, by the Court of Bankruptcy, out of salary or income for payment of creditors.

6. Default in payment of sums in respect of which orders are authorised to be made by the Act.

These cases are therefore absolutely excepted, but it is provided that no person shall be imprisoned in any such excepted case for any longer period than one year.

With regard to the exceptions above numbered 3 & 4 it has now been provided by the Debtors Act, 1878, that the Court or Judge may inquire into the circumstances of the case, and is to have a discretionary power as to imprisoning. (41 & 42 Vict. c. 54.)

In addition to the six exceptions above specified the Debtors Act 1869, in section 5, gives any Court power to commit to prison for a period not exceeding six weeks where default is made in payment of a debt due under any order or judgment, provided it is proved that the debtor has or has had since the date of the order means to pay. This power is to be exercised in the inferior Courts only by a judge or his deputy by an order made in open Court, shewing on its face the ground on which it is issued, and as to a judgment of a superior Court, only where the judgment does not exceed £50 exclusive of costs. This imprisonment is to be no satisfaction of the debt, and it may be mentioned that under the power here given the judges have required very strict proof of the debtor's means.

As to arrest, sect. 6 of the Debtors Act, 1869, provides that in any action in the superior Courts of law where defendant would have been liable to arrest formerly, he may be arrested for a period not exceeding six months, unless or until he has given prescribed security not to leave England without leave of the Court, where the plaintiff, at any time before final judgment proves (1) good cause of action for £50 or upwards; (2) probable cause for believing that defendant is about to quit England; and (3), that his absence will materially prejudice plaintiff in prosecution of action; except as to this last proof, where the action is for a penalty other than a penalty in respect of any contract, when it is not necessary, and the proof of the other two facts alone is sufficient. With regard to this power of arrest it may here be noticed that there is now no distinction between it and the power under the old writ of ne exeat regno. The distinction between legal and equitable debts having now since the Judicature Acts disappeared, the power of arrest can only be exercised when the party brings his case within the provisions of the above enactment. (Drover v. Beyer, 49 L. J. App. 37 ; L. R. 13 Ch. D. 242.)

CALYE'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 131.)

(8 Coke, 32.)

Resolved:—That if a man comes to a common inn, and delivers his horse to the hostler, and requires him to put him to pasture, which is done, and the horse is stolen, the innkeeper shall not answer for it. To charge an innkeeper on the custom or common law of the realm for the loss of goods :—(1) The inn ought to be a common inn. (2) The party ought to be a traveller or passenger. (3) The goods must be in the inn (and for this reason the innkeeper is not bound to answer for a horse put out to pasture). (4) There must be a default on the part of the innkeeper or his servants in the safe keeping of the guest's goods. (5) The loss must be to moveables, and therefore if a guest be beaten at an inn, the innkeeper shall not answer for it.

Notes.—An inn is defined as “a house where the traveller is furnished with everything he has occasion for on his way.” An innkeeper is defined as “one who professes to supply lodgings and provisions for the night, for all comers who are ready to pay therefor,” and he is bound to receive a traveller into his house and provide properly for him upon his tendering a reasonable price for the same, unless, indeed, the traveller is drunk or suffers from a contagious disorder. If the innkeeper fails in his duty he may be indicted at common law, or is liable to an action. (Fell v. Knight, 10 L. J. (Ex.) 277.) A person who professes to let private lodgings only, or to supply provisions only, is not an innkeeper: and if a man come to an inn on a special contract to board and lodge there, the law does not consider him as a guest but as a boarder. At common law an innkeeper was liable for all losses, unless they arose through the act of God, the king's enemies, or the fault of the guest or his servant, but now by 26 & 27 Vict. c. 41, an innkeeper is not liable to make good any loss of, or injury to goods (not being a horse or other live animal, or gear appertaining thereto, or any carriage), beyond £30, except (1) Where stolen, lost, or injured, through the wilful neglect or default of the innkeeper, or any servant in his employ; or (2) Where the goods are deposited expressly with him for safe custody; but to entitle the innkeeper to the benefit of the Act a printed copy of section 1 must be exhibited in a conspicuous part of the hall or entrance to the inn.

An innkeeper, if his bill is not paid, though he cannot detain his guest's person has a lien on, and may detain goods intrusted to his charge, though they are not the guest's property (Threlfall v. Barwick, L. R. 7 Q. B. 711, but see as explaining and limiting this, Broadwood v. Granara, L. R. 10 Ex. 417). And with regard to carriages, horses, &c., the innkeeper's lien is not limited to the charge for the care of the carriages and keep of the horses, but extends to the whole charges against the guest. (Mullinger v. Florence, 26 W. R. 385.) An innkeeper having a lien has now a power given him of actively enforcing it, it being provided by the Innkeepers Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 38), that if a person shall become indebted to him and shall deposit or leave any personal effects with him or in his inn or adjacent premises for the space of six weeks, the innkeeper, after having advertised a month previously in one London newspaper and one country newspaper circulating in the district a notice describing the goods, and giving (if known) the name of the owner or person who deposited the goods, and of his intention to sell, may duly sell the same by public auction. Any surplus after paying the debts and expenses is to be handed to the person who left or deposited the goods.

THE SIX CARPENTERS' CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 143.)

(8 Coke, 146 a.)

Here six carpenters entered a tavern and were served with wine for which they paid; they were afterwards, at their request, served with bread and more wine, for which they then refused to pay. Trespass was on these facts brought against the six carpenters, and the only point in the case was whether the non-payment made the entry into the tavern tortious. It was resolved: (1) That if a man abuse an authority given by the law, he becomes a trespasser ab initio; but (2) Where the authority is given by the party and abused, there he is not a trespasser ab initio, but he must be punished for his abuse. (3) That non-feasance only, cannot make the party who has the license by law a trespasser ab initio, and therefore in this case the mere non-payment did not make the carpenters trespassers ab initio.

Notes.—The rule laid down in this case that a man abusing an authority given him by the law becomes a trespasser ab initio formerly applied to a distress, but now if any irregularity occurs in making a distress, if any rent is justly due, the distrainer is not a trespasser ab initio (11 Geo. 2, c. 19, s. 10). (See further as to distress, post, pp. 33, 34.)

LAMPLEIGH v. BRAITHWAITE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 151.)

(Hobart, 105.)

Decided:—That a mere voluntary courtesy will not uphold assumpsit, for to do so, it must be moved by a precedent request of the party who gives the promise, for then the promise though it follows, yet is not alone, but couples itself with the request. Labour, though unsuccessful, may form a valuable consideration.

Notes.—The rule requiring a valuable consideration to support a promise, is, of course, well known, and needs no comment in these notes ; but it will be useful to observe here that such a consideration consists of either : “some benefit to the party making the promise, or to a third person by the act of the promisee, or some loss, trouble, inconvenience to, or charge imposed upon, the party to whom the promise is made.”

Considerations which, with reference to their nature, are divided into good and valuable, are also, with reference to time, denoted, executed, executory, contemporaneous, and continuing. An executed consideration will not support an action unless founded upon a previous request expressed or implied, and this previous request will be implied in certain cases of which the following are the chief :—

1. Where plaintiff has been compelled to do that which defendant ought to have done and was compellable to do.
2. Where plaintiff has voluntarily done that which defendant was legally compellable to do, and in consideration thereof the latter has afterwards expressly promised to repay or to indemnify him.

16 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

3. Where defendant has taken the benefit of the consideration.

4. Where the plaintiff has voluntarily done some act for the defendant which is for the public good, e.g., in paying the expenses of burying a person in the absence of the one legally liable to pay the same. (Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd Ed. pp. 33, 34.)

CHANDELOR v. LOPUS.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 183.)
(2 Coke, 2.)

The defendant sold to the plaintiff a stone, which he affirmed to be a Bezoar stone, but which proved not to be so. This action was brought upon the case, and on error being brought, it was held that no action lay against defendant, unless he either knew that it was not a Bezoar stone, or warranted it to be a Bezoar stone.

PASLEY v. FREEMAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 66.)
(3 T. R. 51.)

Decided:—That a false affirmation made by the defendant with intent to defraud the plaintiff, whereby the plaintiff receives damage, is ground for an action upon the case in the nature of deceit. In such an action, it is not necessary that the defendant should be benefited by the deceit, or that he should collude with the person who is.

Notes on the two foregoing Cases.—These two cases are placed together as being slightly connected; but although this is so, the differences between them are obvious, for the case of Chandelor v. Lopus touches as well on the point of warranty, whilst Pasley v. Freeman only deals with the nature of the false affirmation that will support an action of deceit. A warranty may be defined as an undertaking, express or implied, arising or given on the sale of goods or chattels. On the question of what amounts to a warranty, it may here be noticed that "every affirmation at the time of sale of personal chattels is a warranty, provided it appears to have been so intended." A warranty which is made subsequently to a sale is invalid for want of consideration, unless indeed made upon some fresh consideration. As to the remedy of the vendee of a chattel on breach of warranty, he cannot return it and recover the price if it is some specific article sold, though he may if the warranty is in respect of manufactured goods never completely accepted, and provided he has only given the article a fair trial. So also a purchaser may return goods sold according to sample if they prove not to agree with the sample. In all cases the vendee can give the breach in evidence in reduction of the vendor's claim, or may bring an action against him for the breach.

The decision in the case of Pasley v. Freeman is subject to the enactment contained in 9 Geo. 4, c. 14, s. 6: "that no action shall be maintained whereby to charge any person upon, or by reason of, any representation or assurance made or given concerning or relating to the character, conduct, credit, ability, trade, or dealings of any other person, to the intent or purpose that such other person may obtain 'credit, money, or goods upon,' unless such representation or assurance be made in writing signed by the party to be charged therewith."

An important distinction between a warranty and a false representation arises in an action brought in respect of either; in the case of the breach of warranty it is of no consequence that the defendant did not know of the defect against which he warranted; but if a person has not actually warranted and an action is brought on his false representation, his knowledge of its falsity must of course be shewn.

Bearing in mind what is stated above, viz.: that every affirmation at the time of a sale of personal chattels is a warranty if it appears to have been so intended, it would appear that Chandelor v. Lopus can hardly be considered good law at the present day; for were the case now to arise, such a statement would, no doubt, be held to amount to a warranty. (See Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd ed. 84.)

COGGS v. BERNARD.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 199.)

(Lord Raymond, 909.)

Here the defendant had promised the plaintiff to take up several hogsheads of brandy then in a certain cellar, and lay them down again in a certain other cellar, safely and securely; and by the default of the defendant one of the casks was staved and a quantity of brandy spilt. Verdict for plaintiff on a plea of not guilty, and on motion in arrest of judgment, Decided:—That if a man undertake to carry goods safely and securely, he is responsible for any damage they may sustain in the carriage through his neglect, though he was not a common carrier, and was to have nothing for his pains. Lord Holt here classifies bailments as follows:—(1) Depositum, or a naked bailment of goods to be kept for the use of the bailor. (2) Commodatum, where goods are lent to the bailee gratis to be used by him. (3) Locatio rei, where goods are lent to the bailee for hire. (4) Vadium, pawn. (5) Locatio operis faciendi, where goods are delivered to be carried, or something is to be done about them, for a reward to be paid to the bailee. (6) Mandatum, a delivery of goods to somebody who is to carry them or do something about them gratis.

WILSON v. BRETT.(11 M. & W. 113.)

Decided:—That a party who rides a horse, at the request of the owner, for the purpose of exhibiting and offering him for sale without any benefit to himself, is bound to use such skill as he possesses; and if proved to be conversant with and skilled in horses, he is equally liable with a borrower for an injury done to the horse, for he is bound to use the skill which he possesses.

Notes on the above two Cases.—These two cases are quoted together, the first as being the leading case on the subject, and shewing the general principle that a gratuitous bailee is chargeable only when guilty of gross negligence, and the latter as somewhat altering that general principle, by deciding that if the gratuitous bailee is in such a situation as to imply skill in what he undertakes to do, an omission to use that skill is imputable to him as gross negligence.

In considering the subject of bailments, we come to that of carriers. A common carrier has been defined as “a person who undertakes to transport from place to place for hire the goods of such persons as think fit to employ him.” At the common law carriers were insurers liable for all losses, except those arising from the act of God, or of the King’s enemies; and to obviate this liability it became their practice to put up in their warehouses notices limiting their liability, and provided it could be shewn that a customer saw such notice, this was usually held to create a contract between the carrier and the customer. Statute 1 Wm. 4, c. 68, provided that carriers shall not be liable for certain valuable articles therein specified, such as gold, silver, pictures, &c., above £10, unless the nature and value of the article were declared, and an increased rate of charge paid or agreed to be paid; and that the carrier may demand and receive an increased rate to be duly notified in his warehouse. No general notices or conditions are to limit the carrier's liability, but nothing in the Act contained is to prevent a special contract. This statute does not protect the carrier from any loss arising from the felonious act of any servant in his employ. After this Act railway companies frequently escaped its provisions by putting notices on the receipts given to persons sending goods, and this was held to constitute a special contract between the parties. The Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31), therefore, provides that no such contract shall be of effect unless signed by the party delivering the goods to be carried; but the company may limit its liability by reasonable conditions—the reasonableness of such conditions to be decided by the judge before whom the matter comes. This Act also exempts companies from liability for loss of (1) horses beyond the sum of £50, (2) neat cattle £15, (3) sheep and pigs £2 per head, unless a higher value is declared, and an increased rate of charge is paid or agreed to be paid. It has been decided that this Act does not apply to contracts made by railway companies exempting themselves from liability by loss or detention beyond their own lines (Zunz v. South Eastern Ry. Co., L. R. 4 Q. B. 539).

A common carrier is bound to carry all goods delivered to him for carriage provided the price be paid or tendered, that they are of the nature he ordinarily carries, that they are not dangerous, and that he has room in his vehicle. If a person delivers dangerous goods to a carrier without informing him of their dangerous nature, he will be liable for any accident arising from them to the carrier, or those who are concerned in the carriage (Farrant v. Barnes, 11 C. B. (N.S.) 553).

ASHBY v. WHITE.

(Lord Raymond, 938.)

At an election of burgesses for Parliament, the plaintiff, being entitled to vote, tendered his vote for two candidates; but such vote was refused, and notwithstanding those candidates for whom the plaintiff tendered his vote were elected, yet he brought this action against the constables of the borough for refusing to admit his vote. Decided :—That action was maintainable, for it was an injury, though without any special damage.

Notes.—The above case decides, that although a person has suffered no actual or real damage, yet if he has suffered a legal wrong or injury, capable in legal contemplation of being estimated by a jury, an action lies; but the decision in this case must be carefully distinguished from those cases in which a damage is sustained by the plaintiff, but a damage not occasioned by anything which the law considers an injury. In such cases the party damaged is said to suffer damnum sine injuria, and can maintain no action. See, in further exemplification of the above decision and these remarks, the important cases of Fray v. Voules (1 E. & E. 839), and Marzetti v. Williams (1 B. & Ad. 415), and Mayne's 'Treatise on Damages,' 2nd ed., pp. 415, 416). (See also Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd ed. pp. 3—5.)

BIRKMYR v. DARNELL.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 326.)

(Salkeld, 27.)

Decides :—That a promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, for which that other remains liable, is within the statute, but not if that other does not remain liable.

---

PETER v. COMPTON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 351.)

(Skinner, 353.)

This was an action upon an agreement of the defendant, in consideration of one guinea paid him, to give the plaintiff so many on the day of his marriage. The marriage did not happen within a year, and the question was, whether or not the agreement must be in writing. Decided :—That “an agreement which is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof” means, in the Statute of Frauds, an agreement which, from its terms, is incapable of being performed within the year; and therefore the agreement in this case need not be in writing.

Notes on these two Cases.—The following is the 4th section of the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3) :—“No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them, or upon any agreement which is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized."

The above two cases are therefore on two of the agreements mentioned in the section, viz. guarantees and agreements not to be performed within a year. The case of Birkmyr v. Darnell is on the point of guarantee, deciding that if the original party remains liable, then the agreement is within the statute, and must be in writing; but if the original party does not, in fact, remain liable, then it is entirely a fresh agreement, and not within the statute; and a guarantee is therefore properly defined as a collateral promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another for which that other remains primarily liable. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 3, provides that the consideration for a guarantee need not appear on the face of the written instrument (see post, p. 61); and the same statute (sect. 4) provides that a guarantee to or for a firm shall cease upon a change in the firm, unless the intention of the parties that it shall continue notwithstanding such change shall appear. The same statute also (sect. 5) provides that a surety who discharges the liability of his principal is to be entitled to an assignment of all securities held by creditor, although they may be deemed at law to be satisfied by his payment.

The latter case of Peter v. Compton well explains what is meant by an agreement not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, shewing that where on the face of the agreement it is capable of being performed within the year, then it is not within the statute, and need not be in writing: though where, from its very terms, it is incapable of being so performed, then it must be in writing. However, with regard to this case, there is this to be observed, that it might have been decided in the same way upon another ground, viz., that all which was to be done by one of the parties was to be done within a year (Donellan v. Read, 3 B. & Ald. 899).

PRICE v. EARL OF TORRINGTON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 344.)

(Salkeld, 285.)

This was an action for beer sold and delivered, and the evidence given to charge defendant was, that the drayman, in the usual course of business, and in discharge of his duty, had made a note of the delivery of the beer, and set his hand thereto, and that he had since died.
Decided:—That this was good evidence of a delivery.

HIGHAM v. RIDGWAY.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 331.)

(1 East, 109.)

In this case it was necessary to prove the precise date of the birth of one William Fowden, and to prove this, an entry made by a man-midwife (since dead), who had delivered the mother, of his having done so on a certain day, referring to his ledger, in which he had made a charge for his attendance, which was marked as paid, was tendered.
Decided:—That this was good evidence.

Notes on these two Cases.—These two cases are here placed together because they are both on the subject of evidence, and because they are sometimes confused by students. The grounds of the decisions are, however, quite distinct; that of Price v. Earl of Torrington being, that the entry was made in the ordinary course of business, and in the performance of duty: and here it must be observed, that in this class of cases only so much of the entry as it was strictly the duty of the party to make can be received. But the ground of the decision in Higham v. Ridgway was, that the entry was against the interest of the party who had made it, and in this class of cases the other facts stated in the entry, though not against the interest of the party making the entry, can be received. Had this not been so, the entry given in evidence in Higham v. Ridgway would have been inadmissible. The distinction is most important and should be well observed.

These two classes of cases come properly under the heading of Hearsay Evidence, which may be defined as some "oral or written statement of a person who is not produced in Court, conveyed to the Court either by a witness or by the instrumentality of a document." (Powell's 'Evidence,' 137.) The general rule as to hearsay evidence is that it is not admissible. The foregoing cases show two exceptions to this rule, and in addition to these, other cases in which the statements of persons not upon oath are admissible in evidence are, that in respect of matters of public and general interest, declarations of deceased persons who may be presumed to have had competent knowledge on the subject, are admitted if made before any controversy arose; also matters of pedigree may be proved by declarations of deceased persons connected by blood or marriage with the family, if made before any controversy arose, or by the general reputation of a family. (See hereon Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd ed., pp. 384—390. Also see 32 & 33 Vict. c. 68, s. 4, post, p. 34.)

CUMBER v. WANE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 357.)

(1 Strange, 436.)

Decided:—That giving a note for £5 cannot be pleaded in satisfaction of £15.

Notes.—This means that a smaller sum cannot be given in extinguishment of a greater, though something else might so operate ; thus a horse might be given in discharge of a debt of £15, though it was not worth even £5. It should be here observed that in this case it does not appear that the note was a negotiable note, and it has since been decided that a negotiable security may operate, if so given and taken, in satisfaction of a debt of greater amount (Sibree v. Tripp, 15 M. & W. 23), the point being that where anything not actually money, but of a different value, is given, the Court will not enter into the question of its adequacy. Again, if there is any doubt or any bonâ fide dispute as to the amount due, a smaller sum may be paid in satisfaction of a larger amount claimed. A smaller sum may also be made a satisfaction of a greater, if a receipt is given under seal ; and under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, a majority of the creditors of any person assembled as therein mentioned may by resolution agree to accept a composition in satisfaction of their debts, which is to be binding on the other creditors, and the payment of which composition is to discharge the debtor. (See Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd ed. pp. 201, 202.)

ARMORY v. DELAMIRIE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 374.)

(1 Strange, 504.)

The plaintiff, being a chimney-sweeper's boy, found a jewel, and carried it to the shop of the defendant, who was a goldsmith, to know what it was. He delivered it to an apprentice, who took out the stone, and the master offered him three-halfpence for it. The plaintiff refused to take it, and insisted on having it returned, whereupon the apprentice delivered him back the socket without the stone; and so the plaintiff now brought an action of trover against the master. Decided:—(1) The finder of a jewel may maintain trover for conversion thereof against the wrongdoer, for he has a good title against all but the right owner. (2) A master is liable for a loss of his customer's property intrusted to his servant in the course of his business. (3) When a person, who has wrongfully converted property, will not produce it, it shall be presumed as against him to be of the best description.

Notes.—The chief and important decision in the above case is that numbered (1), shewing that a finder of property has a good title against all except the rightful owner. The evidence to be adduced on the trial of an action for damages for the wrongful conversion of goods—formerly called an action of trover—is (a) that the plaintiff was in possession of the goods, or had a right of property with the right to immediate possession, (b) that the goods came to defendant's possession, (c) that he or his agent converted them, and (d) their value.

The student desiring to further consider the subject of wrongful conversion of goods is referred to the following cases on that subject :—Hollins v. Fowler, L. R. 7 H. L. 757 ; 20 W. R. 203. Cochrane v. Rymill, 27 W. R. 176 ; National Mercantile Bank v. Hampson, L. R. 5 Q. B. D. 177 ; 28 W. R. 424 ; Taylor v. McKeand, 28 W. R. 628.)

COLLINS v. BLANTERN.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 387.)

(2 Wilson, 341.)

In this case the plaintiff sued on a bond executed by certain parties, of whom the defendant was one, the obligation of which was £700 conditioned for payment of £350. The defendant pleaded the following facts, which shewed that the consideration though not appearing on the face of the bond was illegal: Certain parties were prosecuted for perjury by one John Rudge, and pleaded not guilty. According to an arrangement the plaintiff gave his promissory note to the prosecutor, John Rudge, he to forbear further prosecuting, and as part of the arrangement the bond on which plaintiff sued was executed to indemnify him. The question was whether such a plea was good. Decided.—That the plea was good, for illegality may be pleaded as a defence to an action on a bond.

Notes.—It will be observed that the instrument was one under seal, and that the case decides that though so under seal, and notwithstanding the rule that a contract under seal is binding on the party making it, whether there is a consideration or not, the defendant was not estopped from setting up the illegality.

(As to estoppel, see post, p. 83.)

MITCHELL v. REYNOLDS.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 417.)

(1 P. Wms. 181.)

Here the defendant had assigned to the plaintiff a bake-house, and had executed a bond not to carry on the trade of a baker within the parish for a period of five years, under a penalty of £50. This action was now brought on the bond, and the defendant pleaded that it was void at law. Decided:—That the bond was good, as it only restrained the defendant from trading in a particular place, and was on a reasonable consideration, but that it would have been otherwise if on no reasonable consideration, or to restrain a man from trading at all.

MALLAM v. MAY.

(11 M. & W. 653.)

By articles it was agreed that defendant should become assistant to the plaintiffs in their business of surgeon-dentists for four years; that plaintiffs should instruct him in the business of a surgeon-dentist, and that after the expiration of the term the defendant should not carry on that business in London or in any of the towns or places in England or Scotland where the plaintiffs might have been practising before the expiration of the said service. Decided:—That the stipulation not to practise in London was valid, the limit of London not being too large for the profession in question, and that the stipulation as to not practising in towns where the plaintiffs might have been practising during the service was an unreasonable restriction, and therefore illegal and void ; but that the stipulation as to not practising in London was not affected by the illegality of the other part.

Notes on these two Cases.—All contracts in general restraint of trade are, notwithstanding any consideration that may exist, perfectly void, because they tend to discourage industry, enterprise, and competition ; and even with regard to contracts in limited restraint of trade, it is important to remember that to render them good they must always be founded on a reasonable consideration, and this notwithstanding that the contract may be under seal, in which we find an exception to the rule that contracts under seal require no consideration. The latter of the above two cases plainly shews that agreements in restraint of trade are divisible, i.e., part may be void while part remains good.

SIMPSON v. HARTOPP.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 450.)

(4 T. R. 568 ; Willes, 514.)

Decided.—Implements of trade are privileged from distress for rent, if they be in actual use at the time, or if there be any other sufficient distress on the premises.

Notes.—Distress, which is a remedy by the act of the party, has been defined as the taking of a personal chattel out of the possession of the wrongdoer into the custody of the injured person, in order to procure a satisfaction of the wrong done (3 Stephen's Comms., 8th edit., p. 247). It may be useful here to give a statement of things privileged (a) from distress, and (b) from execution.

(a) The following are privileged from distress :—

1. Things in the personal use of a man.
2. Fixtures affixed to the freehold.
3. Goods of a stranger delivered to tenant to be wrought on in the way of his ordinary trade.
4. Perishable articles.
5. Animals feræ naturæ.
6. Goods in custodia legis.
7. Instruments of a man's trade or profession, though not in actual use, if any other sufficient distress can be found.
8. Beasts of the plough, instruments of husbandry, and beasts which improve the land, if any other sufficient distress can be found.
9. Loose money.
10. Lodgers' goods, by force of the statute 34 & 35 Vict. c. 79.

(b) The following are privileged from being taken in execution :—

1. Wearing apparel and bedding, and implements of trade of any judgment-debtor not exceeding £5.

34 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

2. Goods of a stranger.
3. Goods in custodia legis.
4. Fixtures affixed to the freehold.
5. (In the case of an elegit.) Advowsons in gross, and glebe lands.

OMICHUND v. BARKER.

(Willes, 550.)

The question in this case was whether the evidence of witnesses of the Gentoo religion, and sworn according to that religion, was admissible. Decided:—That the evidence was admissible, and that whenever a witness believes in the existence of a God who will punish him in this world, his evidence must be admitted.

Notes.—In later cases it has been decided that to render the evidence admissible, the belief of the witness must be in the existence of a God who will punish in a future world. However, now by 32 & 33 Vict. c. 68, s. 4, it is provided that on objection to take an oath in any civil or criminal proceeding, such person shall, if the presiding judge * is satisfied that the taking of an oath would have no binding effect on him, make the following promise and declaration: "I solemnly promise and declare that the evidence given by me to the Court shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth;" and the person making such promise and declaration is to be liable for perjury in the same way as if he had taken an oath.

It may be useful here to give a short statement of the law as to the admissibility of witnesses, which now stands as follows:—

6 & 7 Vict. c. 85.—No person offered as a witness shall be hereafter excluded by reason of incapacity from crime or interest from giving evidence.

14 & 15 Vict. c. 99.—Parties to actions and suits, and the persons on whose behalf same are brought and defended, shall (with certain exceptions) be competent and compellable to give evidence ; but this is not to render a party charged with a criminal offence able to give evidence for or against himself.

* By 33 & 34 Vict. c. 49, this is to extend to any person or persons having by law authority to administer an oath.

16 & 17 Vict. c. 83.—Husbands and wives are to be competent and compellable witnesses, except in criminal cases ; but husband or wife not compelled to disclose any communication made during marriage.

32 & 33 Vict. c. 68.—Parties in breach of promise cases and adultery proceedings are competent witnesses ; but in adultery proceedings parties are not bound to confess the adultery unless they have given evidence in disproof of adultery, and in breach of promise cases the evidence of the plaintiff must be corroborated by some material evidence in support of the promise.

17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, ss. 22—27, also contains important provisions as to evidence.

MILLER v. RACE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 516.)

(1 Burr. 452.)

Decided:—That the property in a bank note passes like cash by delivery, and a party taking it bonâ fide, and for value, is entitled to retain it as against a former owner from whom it was stolen.

Notes.—This case establishes the above principle in favour of all negotiable instruments, that is, instruments the property in which passes by delivery so as to give the transferee a right to sue on them in his own name. But if the party taking the negotiable instrument has been guilty of mala fides, he will not be entitled to retain it against the true owner, and gross negligence in taking the negotiable instrument seems to constitute sufficient mala fides.

As to other things, a purchaser, if they are stolen, acquires no title unless he bought in market overt and bonâ fide, and even then, if the offender is prosecuted to conviction no title is acquired, as they revert on conviction to the owner. If goods are sold by a person who found them, they may be recovered by the owner from the person who bought them.

There being this difference between things negotiable and not negotiable, it may be well to quote the following passage from Smith's Leading Cases :—"It may be laid down as a safe rule that where an instrument is by the custom of trade transferable like cash by delivery, and is also capable of being sued upon by the person holding it pro tempore, there it is entitled to the name of a negotiable instrument, and the property in it passes to a bonâ fide transferee for value though the transfer may not have taken place in market overt. But that if either of the above requisites be wanting, i.e., if it be either not accustomably transferable, or though it be accustomably transferable, yet, if its nature be such as to render it incapable of being put in suit by the party holding it pro tempore, it is not a negotiable instrument, nor will delivery of it pass, otherwise than by estoppel, the property of it to a vendee, however bond fide, if the transferor himself have not a good title to it, and the transfer be made out of market overt" (8th ed. 530).

MISA v. CURRIE.(L. R. 1 App. Cases, 554.)(45 L. J. Ex. 852.)*

In this case the defendant drew a cheque for £1999 3s. in favour of one Lizardi or bearer, and he paid it to the plaintiffs, his bankers, in consideration and on account of an amount owing to them exceeding that sum on his overdrawn account. Before presentment of the cheque Lizardi stopped payment, whereby the consideration for the defendant giving the cheque failed, and he accordingly instructed his bankers not to honour it. This was an action brought to recover the amount of the cheque. Decided (Lord Coleridge, C.J., dissentient):—that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover.

Notes.—This case is placed here to follow that of Miller v. Race, as relating to negotiable securities, and it is a decision of very considerable importance, though it must be considered somewhat weaker than it would have been had the Lord Chief Justice concurred in the judgment.

In the circumstances of this case, which are very briefly stated above, had the cheque remained in the hands of Lizardi, the original drawee, the consideration failing, of course no action could have been maintained on it. And, again, had he parted with it for value then paid bonâ fide without the party taking it having any notice of his infirmity of title, there could have been no doubt but that the party so taking it must have had a perfect title to it and right to the money. But here the great difference and point in the case was, that it was paid over on account of a pre-existing debt, and on this ground of no value being then paid, the Lord

Chief Justice considered that the defendant ought to have judgment. The majority of the Court, however, clearly decided that this made no difference, and that the plaintiff was entitled to recover, the ground and reasoning for the decision being that a creditor to whom a negotiable security is given on account of a pre-existing debt, holds it by an indefeasible title.

As relating to the subject of cheques, it may be useful to here remind the student of the Crossed Cheques Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 81). Under this Act, if a cheque is crossed generally, it must be paid through some bank, and if crossed specially, through the particular bank named; and if a banker pays a cheque so crossed otherwise than in these ways, he is rendered liable to the true owner for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid. In addition to this, a cheque if crossed either generally or specially, may also be crossed with the words "not negotiable;" and if a person takes a cheque bearing these words, he is not to be capable of giving a better title to it than that which the person from whom he took it had.

WIGGLESWORTH v. DALLISON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 594.)

(Dougk. 204.)

Decided :—That a custom that the tenant of land, whether by parol or deed, shall have the away-going crop, after the expiration of his term, is good, if not repugnant to the lease under which the tenant holds.

Notes.—But if the lease contains certain stipulations as to the mode of quitting, then, of course, that puts out the custom, and the terms in the lease prevail, which is in accordance with the maxim, "Expressum facit cessare tacitum." It may be stated as a general rule that whenever there is any certain well-known and established usage or custom, and parties contract on a matter connected with it, they will be presumed to have intended to make such usage or custom a part of their contract, and it will be deemed to be incorporated therewith unless there is anything in the express contract to exclude its application.

KEECH v. HALL.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 574.)

(Dougl. 21.)

Decided:—That a mortgagee may recover in ejectment without giving notice to quit, against a tenant claiming under a lease from the mortgagor made after the mortgage without the privity of the mortgagee.

---

MOSS v. GALLIMORE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 627.)

(Dougl. 279.)

Decided:—That a mortgagee, after giving notice of the mortgage to a tenant in possession under a lease prior to the mortgage, is entitled to the rent in arrear at the time of the notice, as well as to what accrues after, and he may distrain for it after such notice.

Notes on these two Cases.—It is well to observe carefully the different results arising from these two cases. The mortgagor having mortgaged his property cannot himself (subject to the provisions of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, presently mentioned), grant any valid lease, and any such lease is in fact a nullity, and being so the mortgagee can of course avoid it altogether; but if the mortgagor before the mortgage made a lease, that is perfectly good, and the mortgagee cannot avoid it, but to obtain the full benefit of his security he can give notice to the tenant, and obtain not only accruing rents, but also rent in arrear, towards liquidation of the amount due on his security. The Judi-capture Act, 1873, though it does not alter this point, contains a somewhat important provision as to mortgagors' powers, viz. that a mortgagor entitled for the time being to possession when the mortgagee has given no notice of his intention to take possession, may sue for such possession or for recovery of the rents and profits, or to prevent or recover damages in respect of any trespass or other wrong relative thereto, in his own name only, unless the cause of action arises upon a lease or other contract made by him jointly with any other person (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 25 (5)).

The different remedies which a mortgagee has, after default, to obtain payment of his mortgage money are as follows :—(a) Ejectment against mortgagor and his tenants since the mortgage, as decided in Keech v. Hall. (b) Suing on bond or covenant. (c) Obtaining rents from tenants prior to the mortgage by giving notice, as decided in Moss v. Gallimore. (d) Selling under the power of sale in mortgage deed, or under the power formerly given by 23 & 24 Vict. c. 145, but now by 44 & 45 Vict. c. 41. (e) When in possession cutting timber if security insufficient. (f) Foreclosing. If a mortgagee forecloses and then sues, the effect of suing is to open the foreclosure and give the mortgagor a renewed right to redeem; and therefore, if a mortgagee forecloses and then sells, he cannot afterwards sue, because he no longer has the mortgaged estate ready to be redeemed if the mortgagor should choose to redeem (Lockhart v. Hardy, 9 Beav. 349). But although this is so, yet it is decided that a mortgagee, after selling under his power of sale, may sue on the covenant to pay (Rudge v. Rickens, 28 L. T. 537).

A mortgagee may exercise his different remedies as he pleases, even concurrently. A mortgagee will not be entitled to add to his mortgage debt sums expended at his own motion for general improvement, but he will be allowed to add sums expended for necessary repairs, protecting the title, or renewing renewable leaseholds. But neither a mortgagee nor mortgagor is actually bound to renew a renewable leasehold in the absence of contract so to do.

The Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), contains now an important provision with regard to leases by either mortgagor or mortgagee. It enacts (sect. 18) that a mortg gagor in possession and a mortgagee in possession respectively shall have power to make leases as follows :—An agricultural or occupation lease for not exceeding twenty-one years, and a building lease for not exceeding ninety-nine years, the same to take effect within twelve months from date, to be at the best rent that can be obtained, without fine, to contain a covenant for payment of rent and condition of re-entry on non-payment for not exceeding thirty days, and a counterpart to be executed by lessee and delivered to lessor ; but execution of lease by lessor shall in favour of lessee be sufficient evidence. In the case of building leases they must be in consideration of houses or buildings erected or improved, &c., or to be erected or improved, &c., within five years from date, and a nominal or less rent than that ultimately payable may be reserved for the first five years or any part thereof. A mortgagor taking advantage of this provision must, within one month of making the lease, deliver to the mortgagee, or where more than one, then to mortgagee first in priority, a counterpart of the lease duly executed by the lessee, but the lessee is not to be concerned to see that this provision is complied with. All this is subject to the express provisions of the mortgage deed, and applies only to mortgages made after commencement of Act (1 Jany. 1882) unless otherwise agreed.

MOSTYN v. FABRIGAS.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 652.)

(Cowp. 161.)

This was an action against the Governor of Minorca for trespass and false imprisonment in Minorca, and after verdict for the plaintiff, the principal question on a bill of exceptions was whether any action could be maintained by a native of Minorca for an injury committed there. Decided: That the action would lie, being of a transitory nature, but that if it had been strictly local no action could have been maintained in England.

Notes.—Local actions are those founded on some cause of action which necessarily refers to some particular locality; transitory actions are those founded on a cause of action which might take place anywhere.

By the Rules in the Schedule to the Judicature Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 77), the whole law of venue is abolished, Order 36, r. 1. providing as follows:—

“There shall be no local venue for the trial of any action, but when the plaintiff proposes to have the action tried elsewhere than in Middlesex, he shall in his statement of claim name the county or place in which he proposes that the action shall be tried, and the action shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be tried in the county or place so named. Where no place of trial is named in the statement of claim, the place of trial shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be the county of Middlesex.”

The defendant however is not at all absolutely bound by the place of trial as chosen by the plaintiff; he may apply to change the place of trial, and if he can show that some other place would be more convenient or a saving of expense to the parties or witnesses, or that he cannot obtain a fair trial at the place chosen by the plaintiff, his application will be entertained and the place of trial changed. (See hereon Indermaur's ‘Manual of Practice,’ 2nd ed. 78.)

LICKBARROW v. MASON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 753.)

(2 T. R. 63.)

Decided:—That the consignor of goods may stop the goods in transitu before they get into the hands of the consignee on the bankruptcy or insolvency of the consignee; but if the consignee has assigned the bill of lading to a third person for a valuable consideration bond fide without notice, the right of the consignor is gone.

Notes.—"Stoppage in transitu," which is a prevention of wrong by a mere personal act, is the right which a vendor having sold goods on credit has to stop them on their way to the vendee, before they have reached him, on his becoming bankrupt or insolvent. If the goods have actually reached the vendee, or an agent on the part of the vendee, then the right is gone, as the very name "stoppage in transitu" imports. The rule to be collected from the cases is stated to be that the goods are "in transitu" so long as they are in the hands of the carrier as such, whether he was or was not appointed by the consignee, and also so long as they remain in any place of deposit connected with their transmission. But that if after their arrival at the place of destination they be warehoused with the carrier, whose store the vendee uses as his own, or even if they be warehoused with the vendor himself, and rent be paid for them, that puts an end to the right to stop "in transitu." It is not necessary in exercising the right of stoppage in transitu, that the vendor should actually seize the goods, for notice to the carrier or other forwarding agent is enough.

As to the latter part of the decision in the above case see also now 40 & 41 Vict. c. 39, sect. 5, referred to post, p. 66.

PIGOT'S CASE.

(11 Rep. at fol. 27A.)

Decided:—That if an obligee himself alters a deed, either by interlineation, addition, erasing, or by drawing a pen through the line, &c., although it is in words not material, yet the deed is void; but if a stranger without his privity alters the deed by any of the said ways in any points not material, it shall not avoid the deed.

MASTER v. MILLER.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 857.)

(4 T. R. 340.)

Decided:—That an unauthorized alteration in a bill of exchange after acceptance, whereby the payment would be accelerated, avoids the instrument, and no action can be maintained upon it, even by an innocent holder for valuable consideration.

---

ALDOUS v. CORNWELL.

(L. R. 3 Q. B. 573.)

Here a promissory note made by defendant expressed no time for payment, and while it was in the possession of the payee (the plaintiff) the words "on demand" were added without the assent of the maker. This action was now brought on the note; and on the plea of the defendant that he did not make it. Decided:—That as the alteration only expressed the effect of the note as it originally stood, and was therefore immaterial, it did not affect the validity of the instrument.

Notes on these three Cases.—Pigot's Case related only to deeds, but Master v. Miller extended its doctrine, as far as regarded material alterations, to bills of exchange, and subsequent cases have applied it indiscriminately to all written instruments whether under seal or not. However, it is not now entirely good law, for such an immaterial alteration in a deed or other writing as filling in a date where a blank is left, though done by the party, does not at all vitiate it. Aldous v. Cornwell is cited as being a recent case, and plainly showing that a mere immaterial alteration in a negotiable instrument does not affect it. If a material alteration is made in an instrument by consent, the instrument is a new contract requiring a new stamp, unless such alteration was made to correct a mistake and make the instrument what it was originally intended to be. (Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd ed., pp. 137, 138.)

WAUGH v. CARVER.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 908.)

(2 Hen. Blackstone, 235.)

Here certain ship agents at different ports entered into an agreement to share in certain proportions the profits of their respective commissions and the discount on the bills of tradesmen employed by them in repairing the ships consigned to them, &c. Decided.—That by this agreement they became liable as partners to all persons with whom either contracted as such agent, though the agreement provided that neither should be answerable for the acts or losses of the other, but each for his own; for he who takes the general profits of a partnership must of necessity be made liable to the losses, and he who lends his name as a partner becomes as against all the world a partner.

COX v. HICKMAN.

(8 H. L. Cas. 268.)

Here S. & S. becoming embarrassed had executed a deed assigning their property to trustees whom they empowered to carry on the business under the name of the Stanton Iron Company, and do all necessary acts, with power to the majority of the creditors assembled at a meeting to make rules for conducting the business or to put an end to it, and after the debts had been discharged the property was to be re-transferred by the trustees to S. & S. Two of the creditors, C. and N., were named amongst the trustees; C. never acted; N. acted for six weeks and then resigned. Some time afterwards the other trustees who continued to carry on the business became indebted to H., and gave him bills accepted by themselves "per proc. the Stanton Iron Company."—Held:—That there was no partnership created by the deed, and that consequently C. and N. could not be sued on the bill as partners in the company.

Notes on these two Cases.—Waugh v. Carver is given in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' as the leading authority on the question of what constitutes a partnership, but Cox v. Hickman is a later case, and perhaps a better authority to quote on the point. A partnership may be either actual or nominal, an actual partnership being where two or more persons agree to combine money, labour, or skill, in a common undertaking, sharing profit and loss. (Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd edit., 114, 115.) The mere participation in profits does not necessarily render a person liable as a partner, but it is a strong test of partnership, and there no doubt are some cases in which upon such participation alone it may be inferred as a fact, that a partnership does exist, but this must depend on the circumstance of each particular case, and now by 28 & 29 Vict. c. 86, in certain cases the mere participation in profits shall not be any test whatever of the existence of a partnership, it being enacted by that statute that none of the following events shall of themselves constitute a partnership :

(1.) The advance of money by way of loan to a person engaged in a trade or undertaking upon a contract to receive interest varying with the profits or a share of the profits.

(2.) A contract for the remuneration of a servant or agent of any person engaged in a trade or undertaking by a share of the profits.

(3.) The receiving by a widow or child of the deceased partner of a trader of a portion of the profits by way of annuity.

(4.) The receiving by any person of a portion of the profits of any business in consideration of the sale by him of the goodwill of such business. But in the case of bankruptcy, &c., the lender of any such loan, or the vendor of any such goodwill, is not to be entitled to recover any such profit as aforesaid until the claims of the other creditors for valuable consideration have been satisfied.

A dormant partner is one who, though not appearing as a partner, yet in reality is one, and he is liable in common with other partners, and a nominal partner is one who, without participating in the profits, yet lends his name to the firm, and he is liable to third parties if his holding himself out as a partner has come to their knowledge, and they gave credit upon the strength of his name. Though partners are jointly interested, yet, on death of one, his share forms part of his own personal estate, and though on the death of one the legal interest in choses in action survives to the others, yet they are in equity but trustees of the share of deceased partner. The power of one partner to bind the other or others depends on the ordinary principles of agency, and in the same way that a general agent binds his principal by all contracts coming within the scope of his agency, so one partner binds the other or others by all such transactions as are within the scope of the partnership dealings, though the partners may have privately agreed that no such power shall exist. Thus, in mercantile partnerships one partner can bind the others by a bill of exchange, though one member of a firm of solicitors would have no such power; but a partner cannot bind his firm by a deed unless he is authorised by deed so to do. A partner is not liable on contracts entered into before he became a member of the firm.

A partnership may be dissolved :

1. By effluxion of time.
2. By mutual consent.
3. If a partnership at will by a notice, unless such dissolution would be in ill faith, or would work an irreparable injury.

BICKERDIKE v. BOLLMAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 51.)

(1 T. R. 405.)

Decided.—That notice of dishonour of a bill is not necessary if the drawer had no effects in the hands of the drawee, so that he could not be injured for want of notice.

Notes.—The result of this decision may be illustrated thus :—A. draws on B., who accepts for A.'s accommodation, and on presentment to B. the bill is dishonoured ; to entitle the holder to sue A. (the drawer) it is not necessary to give him any notice of dishonour, because as he had no assets in B.'s hands, he cannot possibly be injured. Were it an ordinary acceptance of course the drawer could not be sued unless notice of dishonour was duly given to him. But it has been decided that the principle of this case must not be extended, and notice must be given if the drawer have reason to expect that some third party will provide for payment of the bill ; and if the drawer had effects in the drawee's hands at the time when the bill was drawn, he does not lose his right to notice, although before the time of payment he may have ceased to have any.

The proper time for giving notice of dishonour when the person lives at or near the place of dishonour, or where the giver of notice himself received notice, is such a time that it may be received by the expiration of the day after the dishonour, or after the time when the giver of the notice himself received notice, for each indorser "has his day" for giving notice. When the person is not living at or near the place it is enough to give notice by the post of the next post day, or when it is a foreign bill by the next ordinary conveyance. When the bill is at a banker's the banker has a day to give notice to customer, and the customer, another day to give notice to the prior parties.

A cheque should be presented for payment by the day after the day of its receipt, or, if the parties live at a distance, forwarded for presentment within that time, and the result of this time not being observed is to exonerate the drawer of the cheque if the banker fails in the meantime having assets of the drawer. It is not necessary to give notice of dishonour of a cheque if there were no sufficient effects at the time when the drawer would naturally expect the cheque to be presented and the drawer had no reasonable expectation that the cheque would be cashed.

I'ANSON v. STUART.

(1 T. R. 748.)

Decided:—That to print of any one that he is a swindler, is a libel and actionable, for it is not necessary, in order to maintain an action for libel, that the imputation should be one which if spoken would be actionable as a slander.

Notes.—The legal point to remember in this case is that writing may constitute a cause of action as a libel, when the words if only spoken would not without proof of special damage. Words which are slanderous in themselves, i.e., will support an action without any proof of special damage, are words which impute (1) some offence punishable by the criminal law, or that a man has been actually convicted; or (2), some misconduct or incapacity in the plaintiff's trade, profession, or office; or (3), that the plaintiff actually labours under a contagious disorder, the imputation of which may exclude him from society.

It may here be noted that it was decided in the case of The Prudential Assurance Co. v. Knott, L. R. 10 (Ch.) 142; 44 L. J. (Ch.) 192, that the Court had no power to interfere by way of injunction to restrain the publication of a libel, as such, even though injurious to property; but in the more recent cases of Thorley's Cattle Food Co. v. Massam, 6 Ch. D. 582; 46 L. J. (Ch.) 713, and Thomas v. Williams (14 Ch. D. 864; 49 L. J. (Ch.) 605), it has been held that notwithstanding the above case, it has now power to interfere by way of injunction by force of the provision in the Judicature Act, 1873, sect. 25, sub-sect. 8. Having reference to the wide words of that enactment, these later decisions are no doubt correct.

CLAYTON v. BLAKEY.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 106.)
(8 T. R. 3.)

Decided:—That though by the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1), it is enacted that all leases by parol for more than three years shall have the effect of estates at will only, such a lease may be made to enure as a tenancy from year to year.

---

DOE d. RIGGE v. BELL.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 100.)
(5 T. R. 471.)

Decided:—That, although a lease is void by the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1), and therefore the tenant holds not under the lease, but as tenant from year to year, yet such holding is governed by the terms of the lease in other respects.

Notes on these two Cases.—The principle upon which the tenancy, which by 29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1, it is declared, not being created by writing, shall be only a tenancy at will, is converted into a tenancy from year to year, is, that originally in accordance with the statute it is but an estate at will, but afterwards by the payment of rent, or from other circumstances indicative of an intention to create such yearly tenancy, it becomes converted into a tenancy from year to year, to which latter certain tenancy the Courts always lean in preference to the uncertain tenancy of an estate at will. For the rule to determine when a tenancy is at will, and when for years, see Richardson v. Langridge (Indermaur's 'Con. & Eq. Cas.' 4th edit., p. 1).

The decision in Doe d. Rigge v. Bell, that the holding is regulated by the other terms of the lease, arises rather as a matter of evidence than of law. In that case the lease itself was void, but the same rule applies to the case of a tenant holding over after the expiration of his term under a valid lease, for in such a case after there has been a payment and acceptance of subsequent rent, the law, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, implies that he continues to hold on such of the terms of the previous demise as are applicable to a tenancy from year to year.

ELWES v. MAWE.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 169.)

(3 East, 38.)

Decided :—That although tenants may remove fixtures erected for the purposes of their trades, yet tenants in agriculture cannot remove fixtures erected for the purposes of husbandry.

Notes.—This case is useful to cite on the general principle of fixtures, but the law contained in it is now altered, by 14 & 15 Vict. c. 25, and 38 & 39 Vict. c. 92. The first Act (s. 3) provides that buildings, engines, &c., &c., erected for agricultural purposes, with the consent in writing of the landlord, shall remain the property of, and removable by, the tenant, so that he do no injury in the removal thereof; but before removal one month's notice shall be given to the landlord, who has the option of purchasing. The latter Act (which is the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1875), also contains a provision (sect. 53) on this subject, under which such fixtures may be removed although not erected with the consent in writing of the landlord, but a month's notice must still be given prior to removal. In the one case, however, of a steam engine erected by a tenant this provision only applies if the tenant has before erecting it given to his landlord notice of his intention so to do, and the landlord has not by notice in writing to the tenant objected to the erection thereof.

The law, then, as to fixtures shortly stands thus: The tenant may remove those erected for the purposes of trade, domestic use, or ornament; or agricultural fixtures, as provided by the above statutes; but all such fixtures must be removed before the expiration of the term, or during such further period as the tenant holds under a right to consider himself as tenant, otherwise they become the property of the landlord, being considered as a gift in law to him.

Where either freeholds or leaseholds having fixtures thereon are mortgaged, the fixtures will pass to the mortgagee, and as to the question of whether such a mortgage is within the Bills of Sale Act, and requires to be registered, the rule before the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, was that it would be if the mortgagee was enabled under the mortgage deed to deal with the fixtures separately from the building, but not otherwise (Ex parte Barclay, L. R. 9 Ch. App. 576; Ex parte Daglish, L. R. 8 Ch. App. 1072). The subject is, however, now governed by the Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), which provides (sect. 7) that "personal chattels" (which are the things as to which registration is required) shall include fixtures then separately assigned or charged, but not fixtures when assigned together with a freehold or leasehold interest in any land or building to which they are affixed (except trade machinery). If by the same instrument any freehold or leasehold interest as aforesaid is so conveyed or assigned, then the fixtures are not to be deemed separately assigned or charged, only because assigned by separate words or because power is given to deal with them apart from such freehold or leasehold interest. In any bankruptcy or liquidation taking place after this Act this enactment is retrospective.

WAIN v. WARLTERS.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 251.)

(5 East, 10.)

Decided:—That by the word “agreement” in the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 4), must be understood not only the promise itself, but also the consideration for the promise; so that a promise appearing to be without consideration on the face of the written agreement was nudum pactum, and gave no cause of action.

Notes.—This decision is now subject to the statute 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 3, which provides that a guarantee shall not be invalid by reason only that a consideration does not appear in writing, or by necessary inference from a written document. But of course there must even here be a consideration, though it need not appear in the written document.

In the case also of bills of exchange and promissory notes, by the custom of merchants it is not necessary that the consideration should appear on the face of the instrument.

DALBY v. INDIA AND LONDON LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

(15 C. B. 365.)

Decided:—(1) That the contract of life assurance is a contract to pay a certain sum of money on the death of a person in consideration of the due payment of a certain annuity for his life, and that it is not a mere contract of indemnity, as policies against fire and marine risks.

(2) That the interest necessary under 14 Geo. 3, c. 48, s. 3, is an interest at the time of effecting the insurance and not at the time of the recovery of money; therefore although at the time of recovery the interest is gone, yet if at the time of effecting the insurance the person effecting it had a proper interest, he can recover.

HEBDON v. WEST.

(3 B. & S. 579.)

Decided:—That, where there are several policies effected with different offices, the insured can recover no more from the insurers, whether on one policy or many, than the amount of his insurable interest.

Notes on these two Cases.—The case of Dalby v. India and London Life Assurance Company distinctly overrules that of Godsall v. Boldero (9 East, 72) (which will be found set out in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' vol. ii., p. 271), where it had been, in fact, decided that life, like fire assurance, was but a contract of indemnity. The above case is one of the greatest importance, as plainly laying down the rule that if a person has an interest at the time of effecting the life policy, he can afterwards recover, although his interest has gone; thus, if a creditor insures his debtor's life, although he is afterwards paid, yet he can recover from the insurance office.

It should be mentioned that the statute (14 Geo. 3, c. 48) referred to in the above case, does not extend to prevent individuals from effecting insurances upon their own lives, provided that it be done bonâ fide.

A wife has an insurable interest in the life of her husband, but a husband, parent, or child has no insurable interest in the lives of a wife, child, or parent, unless he or she has some interest in property dependent on their lives. By the Married Woman's Property Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 93. s. 10), a married woman may effect a policy of insurance upon her own life, or the life of her husband, for her separate use: and a policy of insurance by a married man on his own life, if so expressed on its face, may enure as a trust for the benefit of his wife and children, or any of them, and as a trust not be subject to the control of the husband or his creditors. But if it was effected for the purpose of defrauding creditors they are entitled to receive out of the sum secured an amount equal to the premiums paid.

Perfect good faith is necessary in effecting a policy of insurance, and any fraud, misrepresentation, or even non-communication of material circumstances, by the party insuring, or his agents, will render the policy void. The maxim caveat emptor has here no application.

On the subject of marine insurance generally, and what is recoverable under special circumstances on such a policy, the student is referred to the recent case of Aitcheson v. Lohre, H. L. 49 L. J. Q. B. 123; L. R. 4 App. Cas. 755.

On the subject of fire insurance the recent case of Rayner v. Preston (L. R. 14 Ch. D. 297, affirmed on appeal (James, L. J., dissenting), 50 L. J. Ch. 472, is of considerable importance. In that case there was a contract for the sale of a house which had been insured by the vendor against fire. After the date of the contract, but before the date fixed for completion, the house was burnt and the vendor received the insurance money from the office. The contract contained no reference to the insurance. It was held that the purchaser was not entitled as against the vendor to the benefit of the insurance, either by way of abatement of the purchase money or re-instatement of the premises. It was, however, left unsettled whether—a contract of fire insurance being only a contract of indemnity—the insurance company in such a case could not compel the vendor to refund the money they had paid him, if he got his full purchase money from the purchaser.

GEORGE v. CLAGETT.

(7 T. R. 359.)

Decided:—That if a factor sells goods as his own, and the buyer does not know of any principal other than the factor, and the principal afterwards declares himself, and demands payment of the price of the goods, the buyer may set off any demand he may have on the factor against the demand made by the principal.

Notes.—In order to constitute a valid defence within the rule in this case all that is necessary to be shewn is that the contract was made by a person whom the plaintiff had entrusted with the possession of goods, that that person sold them as his own goods in his own name as principal with the authority of the plaintiff, that defendant dealt with him as, and believed him to be the principal in the transaction, and that before the defendant was undeceived in that respect the set-off accrued. However, the rule only applies fully where the party contracting has not the means of knowing that the party with whom he contracts is but an agent. If he have the means of knowing, and though he may not be expressly told, still must be supposed to have known, that he was dealing, not with a principal, but with an agent, the reason for the rule ceases, and then cessante ratione, cessat lex (2 S. L. C. 121).

It has been decided, and somewhat extending the rule in the above case but yet strictly within its principle, that though the buyer knew at the time of buying of the person being a factor, yet he is entitled to this benefit of set-off if he honestly believed that the factor was entitled to sell and was selling to repay himself advances made for his principal. (Warner v. McKay, 1 M. & W. 595.)

It may be well to note here the powers of factors over goods entrusted to their possession. At common law the mere position of principal and factor confers a power to sell at such times and prices as the factor may in his discretion think best, but does not confer any power to pledge. This was considered by the mercantile community an undue restriction of the operation of commerce, and in consequence two statutes were passed, 6 & 7 Geo. 4, c. 94, and 5 & 6 Vict. c. 39, commonly known as the "Factors' Acts," the effect of which statutes taken conjointly has been shortly stated as follows :—

"First : Where goods or documents for the delivery of goods are pledged as a security for present or future advances with the knowledge that they are not the property of the factor, but without notice that he is acting without authority, in such case the pledgee acquires an absolute lien.

"Secondly : Where goods are pledged by a factor without notice to the pledgee that they are the property of another, as a security for a pre-existing debt, in that case the pledgee acquires the same right as the factor had.

"Thirdly : Where a contract to pledge is made in consideration of the delivery of other goods or documents of title, upon which the person delivering them up had a lien for a previous advance (which is deemed to be a contract for a present advance), in that case the pledgee acquires an absolute lien to the extent of the value of the goods given up" (Chitty's 'Statutes,' 4th edit., vol. ii., tit. "Factors").

These statutes do not apply to transactions not mercantile, nor to cases of persons to whose employment a power of sale is not ordinarily incident.

A further Act on the subject of Factors has now been passed (40 & 41 Vict. c. 39) which provides (sect. 3) that a person allowed to remain in possession of goods or the documents of title thereto after sale thereof may yet give a good title to a subsequent bond fide vendee or pledgee. It also provides (sect. 4) that where any goods have been sold or contracted to be sold, and the vendee has obtained the documents of title thereto, any disposition to a person bond fide for value shall be good, and (sect. 5) that if any such vendee having the document of title to the goods transfers it over to a third person for value without notice, such transfer shall defeat any right of stoppage in transitu.

ADDISON v. GANDESEQUI.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 369.)

(4 Taunt. 574.)

In this case the defendant, being abroad and desirous of purchasing certain goods, came to England and went to his agents, L. & Co. These agents purchased the goods for him from the plaintiffs, he selecting them, and the plaintiffs debited the agents, L. & Co., with the price. Decided :—That the plaintiffs could not now recover the price against defendant, having known who the principal was, and yet debited the agents.

---

PATERSON v. GANDESEQUI.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 360.)

(15 East, 62.)

The facts in this case were of a similar nature to those of the previous one, and on the trial the plaintiff had been nonsuited. A rule nisi was afterwards obtained to set aside the nonsuit, and on argument it was made absolute, the Court considering that there was some doubt whether or not the plaintiff knew of the defendant being the principal. But the following general principles were laid down, agreeing with the previous case :—That if the seller of goods, knowing at the time that the buyer, though dealing with him in his own name, is in truth the agent of another, elect to give the credit to such agent, he cannot afterwards recover the value against the known principal: but if the principal be not known at the time of the purchase made by the agent, it seems that, when discovered, the principal or the agent may be sued, at the election of the seller; unless where, by the usage of trade, the credit is understood to be confined to the agent so dealing, as particularly in the case of principals residing abroad.

THOMSON v. DAVENPORT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 377.)

(9 B. & C. 78.)

Here, Davenport sold goods to one M'Kune, who told him he was buying them on account of another person, but did not mention the principal's name, and Davenport did not inquire for it, but debited M'Kune. M'Kune failed, and Davenport sued Thomson, who was the principal, for the price. The verdict was given for the plaintiffs, and was now affirmed on writ of error, it being decided:—That the seller might sue the principal for the price, he not having known who the principal was at the time.

Notes on these three Cases.—The above are the leading cases on the subject of principal and agent, and are usually cited together as being very closely connected, and jointly bearing on the point. The case of George v. Clagett (p. 65) is sometimes confused with these three cases, and for easy reference and consideration with them, it is here placed immediately preceding them. That was a case where the owner of the goods employed an agent to sell them, and afterwards declared himself : but these three cases are where goods were purchased by an agent, and the point is, who is liable for the price. The distinction is therefore evident.

An agent's authority may be determined in any of the following way :—

1. By revocation.
2. By the agent's renunciation with principal's consent.
3. By principal's death.
4. By principal's bankruptcy.
5. By fulfilment of the commission.
6. By expiration of time.
7. When the agent is a feme sole, by her marriage.

In order to determine the agent's authority by revocation means should be used to make known such revocation as fully as the employment was known. To correspondents express notice should be given, and to strangers a general notice in the Gazette. (See hereon Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd edit., pp. 106—110.)

MANBY v. SCOTT.

S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 445.)
(1 Sid. 109.)

Decided:—That the wife's contract does not bind the husband unless she act by his authority.

---

MONTAGUE v. BENEDICT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 483.)
(3 B. & C. 631.)

This was an action against a husband for certain goods—not necessaries—delivered to the wife of the defendant.

Decided:—That as the goods were not necessaries, and there was no evidence to go to the jury of any assent of the defendant (the husband) to the contract made by his wife, the action could not be maintained.

SEATON v. BENEDICT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 491.)
(5 Bing. 28.)

This was an action against the same defendant as in the previous case. The claim was for certain goods—which were in the nature of necessaries—delivered to the wife of the defendant. It was, however, shewn that the defendant had supplied his wife's wardrobe well with all necessary articles. Decided:—That a husband who supplies his wife with necessaries in accordance with her station is not liable for debts contracted by her without his previous authority or subsequent sanction.

Notes on these three Cases.—Manby v. Scott is a very old case which occurred in the reign of Charles II., and seems to be cited in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' in some degree, as a specimen of "that laborious process of investigation to which important questions of law were anciently submitted." The general principle established in that case is, however, still good law; but it must be remembered that, with regard to necessaries supplied to the wife, it may not be necessary to shew any specific authority of the husband to charge him, for the wife from her position has an implied authority for that purpose unless the contrary appears; and in Seaton v. Benedict the contrary did appear, for the wife was sufficiently supplied with necessaries.

It has been decided in the case of Jolly v. Rees (15 C. B. (N. S.) 628), that any agreement between husband and wife or the fact of the husband forbidding the wife to pledge his credit, though not communicated to the tradesman, will be a bar to any action against the husband.

This decision has now been thoroughly confirmed by the recent case of Debenham v. Mellon (H. L.) 50 L. J. Q. B. 155; L. R. 6 Q. B. D. 24), which decides that where husband and wife live together, and the husband has privately forbidden his wife to buy goods on credit, he is not liable for the price of articles of dress, although suitable to her rank in life, supplied to her by a tradesman with whom she has not dealt before, but to whom the fact that she was so forbidden has not been communicated.

It should here be mentioned, that if a man takes a woman to his house and lives with her as his wife, she stands in the same position with regard to her power to charge him as if she were actually married to him.

The whole power which a wife has to bind her husband for necessities arises from the fact that during cohabitation there is a presumption arising from the very circumstance of the cohabitation of the husband's assent to contracts made by his wife for necessities suitable to his degree and estate, which presumption is, however, as the cases of Seaton v. Benedict, Jolly v. Rees, and Debenham v. Mellon shew, liable to be rebutted ; and where the wife is living apart from the husband there is no presumption that she has any authority to bind him, and it must be shown that from the circumstances of the separation, or the conduct of the husband, she has such authority. When the husband and wife are living separate, the law as to the husband's liability is as follows :—

Firstly : Where they separate by mutual consent, and no allowance is made to the wife, she has an implied authority to bind him for necessities.

Secondly : Where the husband unjustly expels his wife from the marital roof, or forces her to abandon it by his cruelty, she goes forth with an implied authority to bind him for necessities.

Thirdly : Where they live separately, the husband allowing and paying the wife a sufficient sum for maintenance, she has no authority to bind him for necessities. (See Eastland v. Burchell, 47 L. J. Q. B. 500 ; L. R. 3 Q. B. D. 432.)

Fourthly : Where the wife unlawfully and against the husband's consent leaves him, or if she elopes or lives in adultery, she has no implied authority to bind him.

With reference to the husband's liability for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, formerly he was always so liable, but the Married Women's Property Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 12), provides that "A husband shall not by reason of any marriage which shall take place after this Act has come into operation be liable for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage ; but the wife shall be liable to be sued for, and any property belonging to her for her separate use shall be liable to satisfy, such debts as if she had continued unmarried." This provision came into operation on 9th August, 1870, and has since been repealed by the 37 & 38 Vict. c. 50, so far as relates to marriages since the passing of the Act (30th July, 1874), and this statute provides that a husband and wife may be sued together, but that the husband is only to be liable to the extent of any assets that he may have had with his wife.

It has been decided that though under the above enactment a married woman may be sued, yet she cannot be made a bankrupt even although she has a separate estate (Ex parte Jones, In re Grissell, 48 L. J. Bk. 109 ; L. R. 12 Ch. D. 484).

ROE v. TRANMAR.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 530.)

(Willes, 682.)

Here it was held that a deed which could not operate as a release, as it attempted to convey a freehold in futuro, should nevertheless operate as a covenant to stand seised.

Notes.—The principle which this case carries out is one of great importance, forming, indeed, one of the first rules of construction of all written instruments, viz., “The construction shall be liberal; words ought to serve the intention, not contrarywise.”

It appears convenient here to give some of the chief rules for the construction of deeds:—

1. A deed is to be expounded according to the intention, where that intention is clear, rather than according to the precise words used, for “verba intentioni debent in servire,” and “qui hæret in literâ, hæret in cortice.”

2. To explain an ambiguity apparent on the face of a deed, no evidence dehors the deed itself is admissible.

3. The construction of a deed should be made upon the entire instrument, and so as to give effect, as far as possible, to every word that it contains.

4. The construction should be favourable, and such that “res magis valeat quam pereat.”

5. When anything is granted, the means necessary for its enjoyment are also granted by implication; for it is a maxim that “cui-cunque aliquid conceditur, conceditur et id sine quo res ipsa non esse potuit.”

6. If there be two clauses in a deed so totally repugnant to each other that they cannot stand together, the first shall be received and the latter rejected.

7. Ambiguous words shall be taken most strongly against the grantor, and in favour of the grantee. "Verba fortius accipiuntur contra preferentem." But this being a rule of some strictness and rigour, is the last to be resorted to, and is never to be relied upon but when all other rules of exposition fail ; and it does not apply to a grant by the Crown at the suit of the grantee. (Stephen's 'Commentaries,' 8th edit., vol. 1, pp. 497—499.)

MERRYWEATHER v. NIXAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 546.)

(8 T. R. 186.)

Decided:—That if A. recover in tort against two defendants and levy the whole damage on one, that one cannot recover a moiety against the other for his contribution; though it is otherwise in assumpsit.

Notes.—This decision seems to be only a modification of the maxim, "Ex turpi causa non oritur actio," and the whole decision may be shortly expressed by saying that as between defendants ex contractu the law allows contribution, but not between defendants ex delicto.

Where a person instructs another to do an act manifestly illegal in itself and that other does it, he has no right to be indemnified by the person so instructing him although he had undertaken to indemnify him from the consequences; but it is otherwise if the act is not manifestly illegal and he did not know it to be so. (Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd edit., p. 255.)

Where an action is brought against a person who has a claim for contribution or indemnity over against any other or others, a special course is now given for his protection, whereby he can prevent such third person from afterwards contesting the validity of the judgment that may be obtained against him. (Order 16, rr. 17—21. Indermaur's 'Manl. of Pr.,' 2nd edit., pp. 31, 32.)

VICARS v. WILCOCKS.

S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 553.)

(8 East, 1.)

In this case it appeared that the plaintiff had been retained by J. O. as a journeyman, and that the defendant had, in discourses with third persons, imputed to the plaintiff that he had maliciously cut the defendant's cordage in his rope-yard, and that in consequence of such imputation the said J. O. had discharged plaintiff from his service, and he had thus been much injured.

*Decided:—*That damage to be actionable, must not be too remote; and that where special damage is necessary to sustain an action for slander, it is not sufficient to prove a mere wrongful act of a third person induced by the slander, such as that he dismissed the plaintiff from his employ before the end of the term for which they had contracted; but the special damage must be a legal and natural consequence of the slander.

LUMLEY v. GYE.

(22 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 463.)

This was an action by the manager of one theatre against the manager of another for damages for inducing a singer to break her engagement with him, and the doctrine in Vicars v. Wilcocks, as above, was urged to frustrate the action—the damage of course resulting from a wrongful act.

Decided :—That the action could be maintained.

---

HADLEY v. BAXENDALE.

(9 Ex. 341.)

This was an action of assumpsit brought against the defendants as carriers. The plaintiffs, the owners of a mill, finding one of the shafts broken, sent to defendants' office a servant, who informed the clerk there, that the mill was stopped, and that the shaft must be sent at once, and the clerk informing him that if sent any day before twelve o'clock it would be delivered the following day, the shaft was sent and the carriage paid. The neglect arose in the non-delivery in sufficient time, whereby the making of a new shaft was delayed several days. Evidence was given of the loss of profits caused by the stoppage of the mill, which was objected to by the defendants as being too remote. Decided :—That the loss of the profits could not be taken into account in estimating the damages; and that the damages in respect of breach of contract should be such as might fairly and reasonably be considered either arising naturally, or such as might reasonably have been supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract as the probable result of the breach of it.

Notes on these three Cases.—These cases embrace the question of the proper measure of damages in actions of tort, and of contract, and the subject being of very great importance a few observations on it may be found useful.

Firstly. In actions of contract. The rule in assessing damages here is much more strictly confined than in actions of tort, and generally the primary and immediate result of the breach of contract only can be looked to, thus, in the case of non-payment of money, no matter what amount of inconvenience is sustained by the plaintiff, the measure of damages is the interest of the money only. The principle seems to be in these cases that in matters of contract the damages to which a party is liable for its breach ought to be in proportion to the benefit he is to receive from its performance. Mr. Mayne in his 'Treatise on Damages,' 3rd edit. (p. 9), says: "It is obviously unfair that either party should be paid for carrying out his bargain on one estimate of its value, and forced to pay for failing in it on quite a different estimate. This would be making him an insurer of the other party's profits without any premium for undertaking the risk."

Now, as to the grounds of damage which will in no case be admissible, they may be classed under the general head of remoteness. "Damage," says Mr. Mayne (p. 39), "is said to be remote when, although arising out of the cause of action, it does not so immediately and necessarily flow from it as that the offending party can be made responsible for it." And it is here that the case of Hadley v. Baxendale (which is one intended to settle the law upon the subject, and which has since been acted upon), comes in, laying down the rule as given above in that case, and which rule was shortly stated by Blackburn, J., in Cory v. Thames Iron Works Co. (L. R. 3 Q. B. 186), thus: "The damages are to be what would be the natural consequences of a breach under circumstances which both parties were aware of." If the damages are not within this rule, then they are too remote and cannot be admitted. There is, however, no doubt very often considerable difficulty in determining whether when there are any special circumstances in a case, such special circumstances can or cannot be taken into account in arriving at the amount of the damages. The correct rule appears to be that where there are any special circumstances connected with a contract which may cause special damage to follow if it is broken, mere notice of such special circumstances given to one party will not render him liable for the special damage unless it can be inferred from the whole transaction that he consented to become liable for such special damage, and that if the person has an option to refuse to enter into the contract but still enters into it, this will be evidence that he accepted the additional risk in case of breach. (Mayne on Damages, 8—34.)

Secondly. In actions of tort. The rule here as to damages is of a very much looser character than in actions of contract, and it naturally is so from the nature of the action. With the one exception of actions for breach of promise of marriage, the motives or conduct of a party breaking a contract, or any injurious circumstance not flowing from the breach itself cannot be considered as damages where the action is on the contract, but torts may be mingled with ingredients which will increase the damages to any extent, for a trespass may be attended with circumstances of insult; or, generally, in an action of tort any species of aggravation will give ground for additional damages, and it is in such cases as this that the rule can go no further than to point out what evidence may be admitted, and what grounds of complaint may be allowed for, and the rest must be left to the jury.

Again, however, in considering the grounds of damage which will be admitted here, we must remember that it must not be too remote, and on this point the case of Vicars v. Wilcocks may be given. That case, however, goes particularly to lay down the rule that the wrongful act of some third party, induced by defendant, can never be taken into consideration in assessing the damage against defendant, for the damage must be not only the natural but also the legal consequence. This doctrine, manifestly unjust, after having been shaken by various authorities, seems to be now finally overruled by the above case of Lumley v. Gye, the effect of which is to alter the rule in Vicars v. Wilcocks, by allowing that the wrongful act of the third party may form part of the damage where such wrongful act might be naturally contemplated as likely to spring from the defendant's conduct.

As to the time to which any damages, whether in contract or tort, may be assessed, of course no damages can be given on account of anything before the cause of action arose, and as to damages subsequent to the cause of action, the result of the decisions is stated by Mr. Mayne (p. 84) to be, that such damages "may be taken into consideration where they are the natural and necessary result of the act complained of, and where they do not themselves constitute a new cause of action."

For further information on the subject of Damages the student is referred to Mr. Mayne's 'Treatise on Damages,' from which work the above notes are mainly gathered. (See also hereon Indermaur's 'Principles of the Common Law,' 2nd edit., Part III., Ch. 1.)

NEPEAN v. DOE.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 584.)

(2 M. & W. 894.)

Decided:—That where a person goes abroad and is not heard of for seven years the law presumes the fact that such person is dead, but not that he died at the beginning or the end of any particular period during those seven years.

Notes.—Of course, this presumption of law is liable to be rebutted, and though there is no presumption of law as to the period of death, such a presumption may arise from particular circumstances; but this is matter of evidence, and the onus of proving that the death took place at any particular time within the seven years lies upon the person who claims a right to the establishment of which that fact is essential. There is also no presumption of law in favour of the continuance of life, though an inference of fact may legitimately be drawn that a person alive and in health on a certain day was alive a short time afterwards (In re Phené, L. R. 5 Ch. 139; see also Hickman v. Upsall (App.) 46 L. J. Ch. 245; L. R. 2 Ch. D. 617).

DUCHESS OF KINGSTON'S CASE.

(Bul. N. P. 244.)

In this case there were two questions submitted to the judges:—(1) Is the sentence of a spiritual court against a marriage, in a suit for jactitation of marriage, conclusive, so as to stop the counsel for the Crown from proving the said marriage in an indictment for Polygamy? (2) Admitting such sentence to be conclusive upon such indictment, may the counsel for the Crown be admitted to avoid the effect of the sentence by proving the same to have been obtained by fraud or collusion? Decided:—(1) That the sentence was not so conclusive. And (2) That even admitting that it were, yet it might be avoided by shewing fraud or collusion.

Notes.—This case embraces the doctrine of estoppel, the definition of which Lord Coke gives thus: “An estoppel is where a man is concluded by his own act or acceptance to say the truth;” but more plainly, it is “an admission, or something treated by the law as equal to an admission, of such a high and conclusive character that the party whom it affects is not permitted to answer or offer evidence against it.” Estoppel is of three kinds: (1) By matter of record; (2) By deed; and (3) In pais, which latter means, matter of fact.

The doctrine of estoppel does not prevent a deed from being impeachable for fraud or illegality. (See Collins v. Blantern, ante, p. 30.)

HOCHSTER v. DE LA TOUR.

(2 Ell. & Bl. 678.)

Here there was an agreement to employ the plaintiff as a courier from a day subsequent to the date of the writ, and before the time for the commencement of the employment defendant had refused to perform the agreement, and had discharged the plaintiff from performing it; whereupon he had brought this action. Decided:—That a party to an agreement may, before the time for executing it, break the agreement, either by disabling himself from fulfilling it or by renouncing the contract, and that an action will lie for such breach before the time for fulfilment of the agreement.

---

FROST v. KNIGHT.

In this case the defendant had promised to marry the plaintiff on the death of his father; and he had afterwards, during his father's life, announced his absolute determination never to fulfil his promise.

Decided (on the authority of Hochster v. De la Tour), that the plaintiff might at once regard the contract as broken, in all its obligations and consequences, and sue thereon.

Notes on these two Cases.—The principle decided in Hochster v.

De la Tour seems to be one of reason, for when a man is bound to do some act at a future day, and before that day he declares he shall not do it, and refuses to do it, there seems no reason why the cause of action should be delayed until the arrival of that future day. This principle has been recognised and acted on in the case of Frost v. Knight, given above, overruling the decision of the Court below, which will be found reported in Law Rep. 5 Ex. 322.

A COMPENDIUM OF THE LAW RELATING TO

EXECUTORS & ADMINISTRATORS,

WITH AN APPENDIX OF STATUTES,

ANNOTATED BY MEANS OF REFERENCES TO THE TEXT.

By W. GREGORY WALKER, B.A.,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, AUTHOR OF "THE PARTITION ACTS, 1868 AND 1876; A MANUAL OF THE LAW OF PARTITION AND OF SALE IN LIEU OF PARTITION," AND EDITOR OF GRIFFITH'S "MARRIED WOMEN'S PROPERTY ACTS."

"We highly approve of Mr. Walker's arrangement. . . . The Notes are full, and as far as we have been able to ascertain, carefully and accurately compiled. . . . We can commend it as bearing on its face evidence of skilful and careful labour, and we anticipate that it will be found a very acceptable substitute for the ponderous tomes of the much esteemed and valued Williams."—Law Times.

"Mr. Walker is fortunate in his choice of a subject, and the power of treating it succinctly, for the ponderous tomes of Williams, however satisfactory as an authority, are necessarily inconvenient for reference as well as expensive. . . . On the whole we are inclined to think the book a good and useful one."—Law Journal.

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, EDITOR OF "KELVING'S CROWN CASES," "SHOWER'S CASES IN PARLIAMENT," AND "HALL'S ESSAY ON THE RIGHTS OF THE CROWN IN THE SEASHORE," &c.

REVIEWS.

"Our modern reform is real, and it is certainly beneficent, and depending as it does much upon the decisions of the judges, it is no small advantage that it is so ably explained by such authors and editors as Mr. Griffith and Mr. Loveland."—Law Times.

"Mr. W. Downes Griffith appears to have met with the success which we confidently anticipated for his book when it first came out. His system of annotation remains fuller than that of most of his contemporaries, and rises not unfrequently to the rank of an Excursus on a branch of Law."—Law Magazine and Review.

By SYDNEY E. WILLIAMS, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

"Mr Williams' arrangement of the procedure under his various headings, which include Payment out, Trustee Relief Act, Lands Clauses Act, Settled Estates Act, and many other subjects of jurisdiction which have from time to time been conferred on the Court of Chancery or the Lunacy jurisdiction by special statutes, is very convenient. The chapter on the Lands Clauses Act is especially good."—Law Times.

"The book is furnished with a selection of Forms and Precedents; the arrangement of matter seems convenient; and we have found it easy to consult. We have not observed any important omission within the scope of the Treatise, and the writer deserves the praise of having put together with some skill an unpretending work, which is at least more useful than certain larger law books we know of."—Solicitors' Journal.

With Notes explanatory of the different Causes of Action and Grounds of Defence; and illustrated by the various Decisions down to the Present Time.

By JOHN CUNNINGHAM, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law,

Author of the "Law Relating to Parliamentary and Municipal Elections;" and MILES WALKER MATTINSON, of Gray's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

REVIEWS.

"The notes are very pertinent and satisfactory: the introductory chapters on the present system of pleading are excellent, and the precedents will be found very useful."—Irish Law Times.

"For pupils, also, and beginners at the bar, the book will be very useful; because these, never having served an apprenticeship to the old system, are very apt to omit allegations, essential in certain cases to the validity of a pleading. The authors of the book before us have introduced their collection of forms to the reader by an essay on pleading under the new rules; and we think that a perusal of this essay, which is written in an attractive style, would do a great deal of good both to barristers and masters. . . . We think that the authors have deserved well of the profession, and that they have produced a book likely to grow in favour even among those who at first might conceive a prejudice against a work of this kind."—Law Journal.

"A work which, in the compass of a single portable volume, contains a brief Treatise on the Principles and Rules of Pleading, and a carefully annotated body of Forms which have to a great extent gone through the entirely separate sifting processes of Chambers, Court, and Judges' Chambers, cannot fail to be a most useful companion in the Practitioner's daily routine."—Law Magazine and Review.

"The work contains a treatise on the new rules of pleading which is well written, but would bear compression. To most of the precedents there are notes referring to the decisions which are most useful to the pleader in connection with the particular cause of action involved. We are disposed to think that this is the most valuable portion of the work. It is extremely convenient to have some work which collects notes of this sort in connection with pleading."—Solicitors' Journal.

THE TAXATION OF COSTS IN THE CROWN OFFICE.

COMPRISING A COLLECTION OF

BILLS OF COSTS IN THE VARIOUS MATTERS TAXABLE IN THAT OFFICE;

INCLUDING

COSTS UPON the PROSECUTION of FRAUDULENT BANKRUPTS, AND ON APPEALS FROM INFERIOR COURTS;

TOGETHER WITH

A TABLE OF COURT FEES,

AND A SCALE OF COSTS USUALLY ALLOWED TO SOLICITORS, ON THE TAXATION
OF COSTS ON THE CROWN SIDE OF THE QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION OF THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

By FREDK. H. SHORT,

CHIEF CLERK IN THE CROWN OFFICE.

"This is decidedly a useful work on the subject of those costs which are liable to be taxed before the Queen's Coroner and Attorney (for which latter name that of 'Solicitor' might now well be substituted), or before the master of the Crown Office; in fact, such a book is almost indispensable when preparing costs for taxation in the Crown Office, or when taxing an opponent's costs. Country solicitors will find the scale relating to bankruptcy prosecutions of especial use, as such costs are taxed in the Crown Office. The 'general observations' constitute a useful feature in this manual."—Law Times.

"This book contains a collection of bills of costs in the various matters taxable in the Crown Office. When we point out that the only scale of costs available for the use of the general body of solicitors is that published in Mr. Corner's book on 'Crown Practice' in 1844, we have said quite enough to prove the utility of the work before us.

"In them Mr. Short deals with 'Perusals,' 'Copies for Use,' 'Affidavits,' 'Agency,' 'Correspondence,' 'Close Copies,' 'Counsel,' 'Affidavit of Increase,' and kindred matters; and adds some useful remarks on taxation of 'Costs in Bankruptcy Prosecutions,' 'Quo Warranto,' 'Mandamus,' 'Indictments,' and 'Rules.'

"We have rarely seen a work of this character better executed, and we feel sure that it will be thoroughly appreciated."—Law Journal.

"The recent revision of the old scale of costs in the Crown Office renders the appearance of this work particularly opportune, and it cannot fail to be welcomed by practitioners. Mr. Short gives, in the first place, a scale of costs usually allowed to Solicitors on the taxation of costs in the Crown Office, and then bills of costs in various matters. These are well arranged and clearly printed."—Solicitors' Journal.

By ROBERT CAMPBELL, M.A.,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; ADVOCATE OF THE SCOTCH BAR;

"His book will, we are convinced, prove of great service as a thoughtful and clear exposition of a branch of law of practical interest, not only to the legal profession, but also to the merchant, the shipper, the underwriter and the broker, and to the mercantile community in general. The Table of Contents is analytical and remarkably full; being, in fact, almost an Index within an Index."—Law Magazine.

By HENRY HARDCASTLE,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW;
 EDITOR OF "BUSHBY'S ELECTION LAW," "HARDCASTLE'S ELECTION PETITIONS," AND JOINT-EDITOR OF "ELECTION PETITION REPORTS."

"We should be doing less than justice, however, to the usefulness of Mr. Hardcastle's book if we did not point out a valuable special feature, consisting of an appendix devoted to the collection of a list of words which have been judicially or statutably explained, with reference to the cases in which they are so explained. We believe this is a feature peculiar to Mr. Hardcastle's Treatise, and it is one which cannot fail to commend itself to the profession."—Law Magazine and Review.

"A vast amount of information will be found in its pages—much of it arranged so as to be got at without much difficulty; the chapters and sections being headed with lines of indication. We can only hope Mr. Hardcastle will receive that measure of success to which the amount of labour which he has evidently bestowed upon the work entitles him."—Law Times.

HIGGINS'S DIGEST OF PATENT CASES.

Price 21s.,

A DIGEST OF THE REPORTED CASES

RELATING TO THE

LAW AND PRACTICE OF LETTERS PATENT FOR INVENTIONS,

Decided from the passing of the Statute of Monopolies to the present time ;

Together with an Appendix, giving the Reported Cases from June, 1875, to March, 1880, as also some Cases not reported elsewhere.

By CLEMENT HIGGINS, M.A., F.C.S.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Mr. Higgins's work will be useful as a work of reference. Upwards of 700 cases are digested : and, besides a table of contents, there is a full index to the subject-matter ; and that index, which greatly enhances the value of the book, must have cost the author much time, labour and thought."—Law Journal.
"This is essentially," says Mr. Higgins in his preface, "a book of reference." It remains to be added whether the compilation is reliable and exhaustive. It is only fair to say that we think it is ; and we will add, that the arrangement of subject-matter (chronological under each heading, the date, and double or even treble references being appended to every decision) and the neat and carefully-executed index (which is decidedly above the average), are such as no reader of 'essentially a book of reference' could quarrel with."—Solicitors' Journal.

"On the whole Mr. Higgins's work has been well accomplished. It has ably fulfilled its object by supplying a reliable and authentic summary of the reported patent law cases decided in English courts of law and equity, while presenting a complete history of legal doctrine on the points of law and practice relating to its subject."—Irish Law Times.

"Mr. Higgins has, with wonderful and accurate research, produced a work which is much needed, since we have no collection of patent cases which does not terminate years ago. We consider, too, if an inventor furnishes himself with this Digest and a little treatise on the law of patents, he will be able to be as much his own patent lawyer as it is safe to be."—Scientific and Literary Review.

"Mr. Higgins's object has been to supply a reliable and exhaustive summary of the reported patent cases decided in English courts of law and equity, and this object he appears to have attained. The classification is excellent, being as Mr. Higgins very truly remarks, that which naturally suggests itself from the practical working of patent law rights. The lucid style in which Mr. Higgins has written his Digest will not fail to recommend it to all who may consult his book ; and the very copious index, together with the table of cases, will render the work especially valuable to professional men."—Mining Journal.

"The appearance of Mr. Higgins's Digest is exceedingly opportune. The plan of the work is definite and simple. We consider that Mr. Higgins, in the production of this work, has met a long-felt demand. Not merely the legal profession and patent agents, but patentees, actual or intending inventors, manufacturers, and their scientific advisers will find the Digest an invaluable book of reference."—Chemical News.
"The arrangement and condensation of the main principles and facts of the cases here digested render the work invaluable in the way of reference."—Standard.

"The work constitutes a step in the right direction, and it is likely to prove of much service as a guide, a by no means immaterial point in its favour being that it includes a number of comparatively recent cases."—Engineer.

"From these decisions the state of the law upon any point connected with patents may be deduced. In fine, we must pronounce the book as invaluable to all whom it may concern."—Quarterly Journal of Science.

"A fourth edition of Mr. Lloyd's valuable treatise has just been published. Few branches of the law affect so many and such important interests as that which gives to private individuals compensation for property compulsorily taken for the purpose of public improvements. The questions which arise under the different Acts of Parliament now in force are very numerous and difficult, and a collection of decided cases epitomised and well arranged, as they are in Mr. Lloyd's work, cannot fail to be a welcome addition to the library of all who are interested in landed property, whether as owners, land agents, public officers or solicitors."—MIDLAND COUNTIES HERALD.

"It is with much gratification that we have to express our unhesitating opinion that Mr. Lloyd's treatise will prove thoroughly satisfactory to the profession, and to the public at large. Thoroughly satisfactory it appears to us in every point of view—comprehensive in its scope, exhaustive in its treatment, sound in its exposition."—Irish Law Times.

"In providing the legal profession with a book which contains the decisions of the Courts of Law and Equity upon the various statutes relating to the Law of Compensation, Mr. Eyre Lloyd has long since left all competitors in the distance, and his books may now be considered the standard work upon the subject. The plan of Mr. Lloyd's book is generally known, and its lucidity is appreciated; the present quite fulfils all the promises of the preceding editions, and contains in addition to other matter a complete set of forms under the Artisans and Labourers Act, 1875, and specimens of Bills of Costs, which will be found a novel feature, extremely useful to legal practitioners."—JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

"The work is one of great value. It deals with a complicated and difficult branch of the law, and it deals with it exhaustively. It is not merely a compilation or collection of the statutes bearing on the subject, with occasional notes and references. Rather it may be described as a comprehensive treatise on, and digest of, the law relating to the compulsory acquisition and purchase of land by public companies and municipal and other local authorities, and the different modes of assessment of the compensation. All the statutes bearing on the subject have been collated, all the law on the subject collected, and the decisions conveniently arranged. With this comprehensiveness of scope is united a clear statement of principles, and practical handling of the points which are likely to be contested, and especially of those in which the decisions are opposed or differently understood."—Local Government Chronicle.

THE SUCCESSION LAWS OF CHRISTIAN COUNTRIES,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO

THE LAW OF PRIMOGENITURE AS IT EXISTS IN ENGLAND.

By EYRE LLOYD, B.A.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; AUTHOR OF "THE LAW OF COMPENSATION UNDER THE LANDS CLAUSES CONSOLIDATION ACTS," ETC.

"Mr. Lloyd has given us a very useful and compendious little digest of the laws of succession which exist at the present day in the principal States of both Europe and America; and we should say it is a book which not only every lawyer, but every politician and statesman, would do well to add to his library."—Full Mail Gazette.

"Mr. Eyre Lloyd compresses into little more than eighty pages a considerable amount of matter both valuable and interesting; and his quotations from Diplomatic Reports by the present Lord Lytton, and other distinguished public servants, throw a picturesque light on a narrative much of which is necessarily dry reading. We can confidently recommend Mr. Eyre Lloyd's new work as one of great practical utility, if, indeed, it be not unique in our language, as a book of reference on Foreign Succession Laws."—Law Magazine and Review.

"Mr. Eyre Lloyd has composed a useful and interesting abstract of the laws on the subject of succession to property in Christian countries, with special reference to the law of primogeniture in England."—Saturday Review.

"This is a very useful little handy book on foreign succession laws. It contains in an epitomised form information which would have to be sought through a great number of scattered authorities and foreign law treatises, and will be found of great value to the lawyer, the writer, and the political student."—Standard.

CASES AND OPINIONS ON CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, AND VARIOUS POINTS OF ENGLISH JURISPRUDENCE.

Collected and Digested from Official Documents and other Sources; with Notes. By WILLIAM FORSYTH, M.A., M.P., Q.C., Standing Counsel to the Secretary of State in Council of India, Author of "Hortensius," "History of Trial by Jury," "Life of Cicero," etc., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

From the CONTEMPORARY REVIEW.

"We cannot but regard with interest a book which, within moderate compass, presents us with the opinions or responsa of such lawyers and statesmen as Somers, Holt, Hardwicke, Mansfield, and, to come down to our own day, Lyndhurst, Abinger, Denman, Cranworth, Campbell, St. Leonards, Westbury, Chelmsford, Cockburn, Cairns, and the present Lord Chancellor Hatherley. At the end of each chapter of the 'Cases and opinions,' Mr. Forsyth has added notes of his own, containing a most excellent summary of all the law bearing on that branch of his subject to which the 'Opinions' refer."

From the LAW MAGAZINE and LAW REVIEW.

"Mr. Forsyth has largely and beneficially added to our legal stores. His work may be regarded as in some sense a continuation of 'Chalmers's Opinions of Eminent Lawyers.' . . . The constitutional relations between England and her colonies are becoming every day of more importance. The work of Mr. Forsyth will do more to make these relations perfectly clear than any which has yet appeared. Henceforth it will be the standard work of reference in a variety of questions which are constantly presenting themselves for solution both here and in our colonies."

From the LAW TIMES.

"This one volume of 560 pages or thereabouts is a perfect storehouse of law not readily to be found elsewhere, and the more useful because it is not abstract law, but the application of principles to particular cases. Mr. Forsyth's plan is that of classification. He collects in separate chapters a variety of opinions bearing upon separate branches of the law . . . This is a book to be read, and therefore we recommend it not to all lawyers only, but to every law student. The editor's own notes are not the least valuable portion of the volume."

By HENRY GODEFROI, of Lincoln's Inn, and JOHN SHORTT, of the Middle Temple, Barristers-at-Law.

"The title of this book is the best possible explanation of its contents. Here we have all the statutes affecting Railway Companies, with the standing orders of Parliament, in a volume exquisitely printed, and of most convenient size and form. . . . We believe that we have said enough to show that this book will prove to be of pre-eminent value to practitioners, both before Parliamentary committees and in the Courts of Law and Equity."—Law Journal.

WITH AN APPENDIX,

CONTAINING

THE GENERAL RULES OF 1870, 1871, 1873, & 1878, SCALE OF COSTS, AND THE BILLS OF SALE ACT, 1878.

By RICHARD RINGWOOD, B.A.,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, ESQ., BARRISTER-AT-LAW; LATE SCHOLAR OF TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

"The author of this convenient handbook sees the point upon which we insist elsewhere in regard to the chief aim of any system of Bankruptcy Law which should deserve the title of National. . . . There can be no question that a sound measure of Reform is greatly needed, and would be welcomed by all parties in the United Kingdom. Pending this amendment it is necessary to know the Law as it is, and those who have to deal with the subject in any of its practical legal aspects will do well to consult Mr. Ringwood's unpretending but useful volume."—Law Magazine.

"Mr. Ringwood tells us in his preface that his work is chiefly intended for students, and it will no doubt be useful to them. On the other hand, the 'principles of bankruptcy' are not dealt with by Mr. Ringwood in the way we expected from the title of his book, which is, in fact, the Bankruptcy Act of 1869 itself arranged—no doubt at considerable labour—in about the most convenient form in which it can be presented to the student. The Table of Cases is carefully prepared, reference being made in each case to all the contemporary law reports. Mr. Ringwood has fairly and concisely stated the new and the old law as to bills of sale, and as to the rights of trustees in bankruptcy in connection therewith."—Law Times.

"The above work is written by a distinguished scholar of Trinity College, Dublin. Mr. Ringwood has chosen a most difficult and unattractive subject, but he has shown sound judgment and skill in the manner in which he has executed his task. His book does not profess to be an exhaustive treatise on bankruptcy law, yet in a neat and compact volume we have a vast amount of well-digested matter. The reader is not distracted and puzzled by having a long list of cases flung at him at the end of each page, as the general effect of the law is stated in a few well-selected sentences, and a reference given to the leading decisions only on the subject. . . . An excellent index, and a table of cases, where references to four sets of contemporary reports may be seen at a glance, show the industry and care with which the work has been done."—Daily Paper.

By EDWARD T. BALDWIN, M.A.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Mr. Baldwin cannot expect, nor indeed does he appear to have attempted, to supersede the exhaustive treatises of Williams and Robson, but he has succeeded in compiling a really useful compendium of an exceedingly dry but widely important department of the Law, which will be found a convenient manual for the merchant as well as the lawyer. . . . Opposite each section of the Act of 1869, is a marginal reference to the page of the treatise in which the subject-matter is discussed, and facility of reference is further aided by an Index covering fifty pages of the book."—Law Magazine and Review.

"We are very favourably impressed with this work, which has been growing in popularity since its publication, and it is one which must be most useful both to the student and the practitioner. As to the student, he has only to look to the last Examination on the subject of Bankruptcy to see how usefully Mr. Baldwin's work came in."—Law Student's Journal.

SECOND EDITION.

BY SEWARD BRICE, M.A., LL.D. LONDON,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

REVIEWS.

"Despite its unpromising and cabalistic title, and the technical nature of its subject, it has so recommended itself to the profession that a second edition is called for within three years from the first publication; and to this call Mr. Brice has responded with the present volume, the development of which in excess of its predecessor is remarkable even in the annals of law books. Sixteen hundred new cases have been introduced, and, instead of five hundred pages octavo, the treatise occupies a thousand very much larger pages. This increase in bulk is partly due to the incorporation with the English law on the subject of the more important American and Colonial doctrines and decisions—a course which we think Mr. Brice wise in adopting, since the judgments of American tribunals are constantly becoming more frequently quoted and more respectfully considered in our own courts, particularly on those novel and abstruse points of law for which it is difficult to find direct authority in English reports. In the present speculative times, anything relating to Joint-Stock Companies is of public importance, and the points on which the constitution and operation of these bodies are affected by the doctrine of Ultra Vires are just those which are most material to the interests of the shareholders and of the community at large. . . . Some of the much disputed questions in regard to corporations, on which legal opinion is still divided, are particularly well treated. Thus with reference to the authority claimed by the Courts to restrain corporations or individuals from applying to Parliament for fresh powers in breach of their express agreements or in derogation of private rights, Mr. Brice most elaborately and ably reviews the conflicting decisions on this apparent interference with the rights of the subject, which threatened at one time to bring the Legislature and the Courts into a collision similar to that which followed on the well-known case of Ashby v. White. . . . Another very difficult point on which Mr. Brice's book affords full and valuable information is as to the liability of Companies on contracts entered into before their formation by the promoters, and subsequently ratified or adopted by the Company, and as to the claims of promoters themselves for services rendered to the inchoate Company. . . . The chapter on the liabilities of corporations ex delicto for fraud and other torts committed by their agents within the region of their authority seems to us remarkably well done, reviewing as it does all the latest and somewhat contradictory decisions on the point. . . . On the whole we consider Mr. Brice's exhaustive work a valuable addition to the literature of the profession."—SATURDAY REVIEW.

"The doctrine which forms the subject of Mr. Seward Brice's elaborate and exhaustive work is a remarkable instance of rapid growth in modern Jurisprudence. His book, indeed, now almost constitutes a Digest of the Law of Great Britain and her Colonies and of the United States on the Law of Corporations—a subject vast enough at home, but even more so beyond the Atlantic, where Corporations are so numerous and powerful. Mr. Seward Brice relates that he has embodied a reference in the present edition to about 1600 new cases, and expresses the hope that he has at least referred to 'the chief cases.' We should think there can be few, even of the Foreign Judgments and Dicta, which have not found their way into his pages. The question what is and what is not Ultra Vires is one of very great importance in commercial countries like Great Britain and the United States. Mr. Seward Brice has done a great service to the cause of Comparative Jurisprudence by his new recension of what was from the first a unique textbook on the Law of Corporations. He has gone far towards effecting a Digest of that Law in its relation to the Doctrine of Ultra Vires. and the second edition of his most careful and comprehensive work may be commended with equal confidence to the English, the American, and the Colonial Practitioner, as well as to the scientific Jurist."—Law Magazine and Review.

"It is the Law of Corporations that Mr. Brice treats of (and treats of more fully, and at the same time more scientifically, than any work with which we are acquainted), not the law of principal and agent; and Mr. Brice does not do his book justice by giving it so vague a title."—Law Journal.

"A guide of very great value. Much information on a difficult and unattractive subject has been collected and arranged in a manner which will be of great assistance to the seeker after the law on a point involving the powers of a company."—Law Journal. (Review of First Edition.)

"On this doctrine, first introduced in the Common Law Courts in East Anglian Railway Co. v. Eastern Counties Railway Co., BRICE ON ULTRA VIRES may be read with advantage."—Judgment of LORD JUSTICE BRAMWELL, in the Case of Evershed v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co. (L. R., 3 Q. B. Div. 141.)

SHIPMASTERS AND SEAMEN.
THEIR APPOINTMENT, DUTIES, POWERS, RIGHTS, LIABILITIES

By JOSEPH KAY, Esq., M.A., Q.C.,

OF TRIN. COLL. CAMBRIDGE, AND OF THE NORTHERN CIRCUIT ;

SOLICITOR-GENERAL OF THE COUNTY PALATINE OF DURHAM ; ONE OF THE JUDGES OF THE COURT OF RECORD FOR THE HUNDRED OF SALFORD ;

AND AUTHOR OF "THE SOCIAL CONDITION AND EDUCATION OF THE PEOPLE IN ENGLAND AND EUROPE."

REVIEWS OF THE WORK.

From the NAUTICAL MAGAZINE, July, 1875.

"It is rarely that we find a book fulfilling the requirements of both classes; full and precise enough for the lawyer, and at the same time intelligible to the non-legal understanding. Yet the two volumes by Mr. Kay on the law relating to shipmasters and seamen will, we venture to say, be of equal service to the captain, the lawyer, and the Consul, in their respective capacities, and even of interest to the public generally, written as it is in a clear and interesting style, and treating of a subject of such vast importance as the rights and liabilities and relative duties of all passengers included, who venture upon the ocean; more than that, we think that any able-seaman might read that chapter on the crew with the certainty of acquiring a clearer notion of his own position on board ship.

"We can make no charge of redundancy or omission against our author: but if we were called upon to select any one out of the fifteen parts into which the two volumes are divided as being especially valuable, we should not hesitate to choose that numbered three, and entitled 'The Voyage.'

There the master will find a succinct and compendious statement of the law respecting his duties general and particular, with regard to the ship and its freight from the moment when, on taking command, he is bound to look to the seaworthiness of the ship, and to the delivery of her log at the final port of destination. In Part IV. his duties are considered with respect to the cargo, this being a distinct side of his duplicate character, inasmuch as he is agent of the owner of the cargo just as much as the owner of the ship.

"Next in order of position come 'Bills of Lading' and 'Stoppage in Transitu.' We confess that on first perusal we were somewhat surprised to find the subject of the delivery of goods by the master given priority over that of bills of lading; the logical sequence, however, of these matters was evidently sacrificed, and we think with advantage to the author's desire for unity in his above-mentioned chapters on 'The Voyage.' That this is so is evidenced by the fact that after his seventh chapter with the heading of the former and a reference

ante. 'The power of the master to bind the owner by his personal contracts,' 'Hypothecation,' and 'The Crew,' form the remainder of the contents of the first volume, of which we should be glad to have made more mention, but it is obviously impossible to criticize in detail a work in which the bare list of cited cases occupies forty-four pages.

"The question of compulsory pilotage is full of difficulties, which are well summed up by Mr. Kay.

"In conclusion, we can heartily congratulate Mr. Kay upon his success."

From the LIVERPOOL JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

"The law relating to Shipmasters and Seamen"—such is the title of a voluminous and important work which has just been issued by Messrs. Stevens and Haynes, the eminent law publishers, of London. The author is Mr. Joseph Kay, Q.C., and while treating generally of the law relating to shipmasters and seamen, he refers more particularly to their appointment, duties, rights, liabilities, and remedies. It consists of two large volumes, the text occupying nearly twelve hundred pages, and the value of the work being enhanced by copious appendices and index, and by the quotation of a mass of authorities. . . . The work must be an invaluable one to the shipowner, shipmaster, or consul at a foreign port. The language is clear and simple, while the legal standing of the author is a sufficient guarantee that he writes with the requisite authority, and that the cases quoted by him are decisive as regards the points on which he touches."

From the LAW JOURNAL.

"The author tells us that for ten years he has been engaged upon it. . . . Two large volumes containing 1181 pages of text, 81 pages of appendices, 98 pages of index, and upwards of 1800 cited cases, attest the magnitude of the work designed and accomplished by Mr. Kay.

"Mr. Kay says that he has 'endeavoured to compile a guide and reference book for masters, ship agents and consuls.' He has been so modest as not to add lawyers to the list of his pupils; but his work will, we think, be welcomed by lawyers who have to do with shipping transactions, almost as cordially as it undoubtedly will be by those who occupy their business in the great waters."

ON THE COMPULSORY PURCHASE OF THE UNDERTAKINGS OF COMPANIES BY CORPORATIONS,

And the Practice in Relation to the Passage of Bills for Compulsory Purchase through Parliament. By J. H. BALFOUR BROWNE, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law; Author of "The Law of Rating," "The Law of Usages and Customs," &c., &c.

"This is a work of considerable importance to all Municipal Corporations, and it is hardly too much to say that every member of these bodies should have a copy by him for constant reference. Probably at no very distant date the property of all the existing gas and water companies will pass under municipal control, and therefore it is exceedingly desirable that the principles and conditions under which such transfers ought to be made should be clearly understood. This task is made easy by the present volume. The stimulus for the publication of such a work was given by the action of the Parliamentary Committee which last session passed the preamble of the 'Stockton and Middlesborough Corporations Water Bill, 1876.' The volume accordingly contains a full report of the case as it was presented both by the promoters and opponents, and as this was the first time in which the principle of compulsory purchase was definitely recognised, there can be no doubt that it will long be regarded as a leading case. As a matter of course, many incidental points of interest arose during the progress of the case. Thus, besides the main question of compulsory purchase, and the question as to whether there was or was not any precedent for the Bill, the questions of water compensations, of appeals from one Committee to another, and other kindred subjects were discussed. These are all treated at length by the Author in the body of the work, which is thus a complete legal compendium on the large subject with which it so ably deals."

"The Law relating to Charities by F. M. Whiteford contains a brief but clear exposition of the law relating to a class of bequests in which the intentions of donors are often frustrated by unacquaintance with the statutory provisions on the subject. Decisions in reported cases occupy a large portion of the text, together with the explanations pertinent to them. The general tenor of Mr. Whiteford's work is that of a digest of Cases rather than a treatise, a feature, however, which will not diminish its usefulness for purposes of reference."—Law Magazine and Review.

SAVIGNY'S TREATISE ON OBLIGATIONS IN ROMAN LAW.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN, M.A.

EDIN. AND OXON., AND B.C.L. OXON., OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Mr. Archibald Brown deserves the thanks of all interested in the science of Law, whether as a study or a practice, for his edition of Herr von Savigny's great work on 'Obligations.' Mr. Brown has undertaken a double task—the translation of his author, and the analysis of his author's matter. That he has succeeded in reducing the bulk of the original will be seen at a glance; the French translation consisting of two volumes, with some five hundred pages apiece, as compared with Mr. Brown's thin volume of a hundred and fifty pages. At the same time the pith of Von Savigny's matter seems to be very successfully preserved, nothing which might be useful to the English reader being apparently omitted.

"The new edition of Savigny will, we hope, be extensively read and referred to by English lawyers. If it is not, it will not be the fault of the translator and epitomiser. Far less will it be the fault of Savigny himself, whose clear definitions and accurate tests are of great use to the legal practitioner."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Harris's digest ought to have very great success among law students both in the Inns of Court and the Universities. His book gives evidence of praiseworthy accuracy and laborious condensation."—LAW JOURNAL.

"This book contains a summary in English of the elements of Roman Law as contained in the works of Gaius and Justinian, and is so arranged that the reader can at once see what are the opinions of either of these two writers on each point. From the very exact and accurate references to titles and sections given he can at once refer to the original writers. The concise manner in which Mr. Harris has arranged his digest will render it most useful, not only to the students for whom it was originally written, but also to those persons who, though they have not the time to wade through the larger treatises of Poste, Sanders, Ortolan, and others, yet desire to obtain some knowledge of Roman Law."—OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE UNDERGRADUATES' JOURNAL.

THE STUDENTS' REMINDER & PUPILS' HELP IN PREPARING FOR A PUBLIC EXAMINATION.

By THOMAS MARSH,

PRIVATE TUTOR, AUTHOR OF AN "ENGLISH GRAMMAR," &c.

"In these days of competitive examination and well-nigh universal education, students will find a useful auxiliary in the 'Student's Reminder and Pupil's Help,' by Thomas Marsh, which gives in a concise form some fruitful information, that, just because it is elementary, is apt to be momentarily forgotten."—The Graphic.

"We welcome this compendium with great pleasure as being exactly what is wanted in this age of competitive examinations. It is evidently the work of a master hand, and could only be compiled by one thoroughly experienced in the work of teaching. Mr. Marsh has summarised and analysed the subjects required for the preliminary examinations of law students, as well as for the University and Civil Service examinations. He has paid special attention to mathematics, but the compendium also includes ancient and modern languages, geography, dictation, &c. It was a happy idea to make it quarto size, and the type and printing are clear and legible."—Irish Law Times.

"This remarkable volume might almost be described as containing a little of everything, and any student who masters its contents may fairly regard himself as standing well for such ordinary examinations as he may be called upon to pass. Mr. Marsh has evidently had great experience in preparing pupils for such tests, and he has in this work brought together a mass of leading points on a variety of subjects for their assistance."—City Press.

ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY.

FROM THE TEUTONIC INVASION TO THE PRESENT TIME.

Designed as a Text-book for Students and others.

By T. P. TASWELL-LANGMEAD, B.C.L.,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, LATE TUTOR ON CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND LEGAL HISTORY TO THE FOUR INNS OF COURT, AND FORMERLY VINERIAN SCHOLAR IN THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD.

Second and Enlarged Edition, revised throughout, and in many parts rewritten.

"As it now stands, we should find it hard to name a better text-book on English Constitutional History."—Solicitors' Journal.

"That the greatest care and labour have been bestowed upon it is apparent in every page, and we doubt not that it will become a standard work not likely soon to die out."—Oxford and Cambridge Under-graduates' Journal.

"As a text-book for the lecturer it is most valuable. It does not always observe a strict chronological sequence, but brings together all that has to be said on a given subject at the point when that subject happens to possess a special importance."—Contemporary Review.

"Mr. Taswell-Langmead's compendium of the rise and development of the English Constitution has evidently supplied a want. . . . The present Edition is greatly improved. . . . We have no hesitation in saying that it is a thoroughly good and useful work."—Spectator.

"We think Mr. Taswell-Langmead may be congratulated upon having compiled an elementary work of conspicuous merit."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"For students of history we do not know any work which we could more thoroughly recommend."—Law Times.

"It is a safe, careful, praiseworthy digest and manual of all constitutional history and law."—Globe.

"The volume on English Constitutional History, by Mr. Taswell-Langmead, is exactly what such a history should be."—Standard.

"As a text-book for students, we regard it as an exceptionally able and complete work."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Taswell-Langmead has thoroughly grasped the bearings of his subject. It is, however, in dealing with that chief subject of constitutional history—parliamentary government—that the work exhibits its great superiority over its rivals."—Academy.

THE PRINCIPLES OF EQUITY.

INTENDED FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

By EDMUND H. T. SNELL,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

FIFTH EDITION.

TO WHICH IS ADDED

AN EPITOME OF THE EQUITY PRACTICE.

SECOND EDITION.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN, M.A., EDIN. & OXON., & B.C.L. OXON.,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; AUTHOR OF "A NEW LAW DICTIONARY,"
"AN ANALYSIS OF SAVIGNY ON OBLIGATIONS," AND THE "LAW OF FIXTURES."

REVIEWS.

"Rarely has a text-book attained more complete and rapid success than Snell's 'Principles of Equity,' of which a fifth edition has just been issued."—Law Times.

"Seldom does it happen that a work secures so great a reputation as this book, and to Mr. Brown is due the credit of keeping it up with the times. . . . It is certainly the most comprehensive as well as the best work on Equity Jurisprudence in existence."—Oxford and Cambridge Undergraduate's Journal.

"The changes introduced by the Judicature Acts have been well and fully explained by the present edition of Mr. Snell's treatise, and everything necessary in the way of revision has been conscientiously accomplished. We perceive the fruitful impress of the 'amending hand' in every page; the results of the decisions under the new system have been carefully explained, and engrafted into the original text; and in a word, Snell's work, as edited by Mr. Brown, has proved the fallacy of Bentham's description of Equity as 'that capricious and inconsistent mistress of our fortunes, whose features no one is able to delineate.' He has added a book, comprising 127 pages, on the present 'Practice in Equity,' as to which he observes that it 'will be probably found by students very serviceable, and by practitioners very handy and convenient, seeing that it embodies the whole procedure (even in its minutest details), and at the same time collects it all together under efficient practical headings, with their sub-divisions, so much so that everything may be found in the 'Practice' without either difficulty of search or diversity of reference.' This, on the whole, accurately describes the general character and quality of that portion of the work; but at the same time, we must say that it cannot well claim to be much more than a skillful précis of the procedure as formulated and prescribed by the Acts and Rules themselves, with a few exceptions, but without anything like an expanded treatment such as might render that portion of the work equal to the portion dealing with the principles of equity. Suggested, however, by the necessities experienced by its writer in his own practice, it will doubtless prove useful to others in an equal degree; and it certainly forms a valuable and much-needed supplement to Mr. Snell's work."—Irish Law Times.

"We know of no better introduction to the Principles of Equity."—

CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

"Within the ten years which have elapsed since the appearance of the first edition of this work, its reputation has steadily increased, and it has long since been recognised by students, tutors and practitioners, as the best elementary treatise on the important and difficult branch of the law which forms its subject. In editing the fourth edition, Mr. Brown, while 'working up the language and contents of the book to the level of the new procedure introduced by the Judicature Acts,' noting changes of the law, and correcting the minor errors, has wisely abstained from interference with the general character of the work, which equally with its lucidity and trustworthiness has shared in gaining the approval of the profession. But he has added a new feature in an Epitome of the Practice in Equity which forms a valuable complement to the 'Principles,' equally useful to the young practitioner and to the student, by whom Principles and Practice should be concurrently studied. We think Mr. Brown is to be congratulated on having produced a really useful Epitome, which while not attempting to supersede the larger Practices, will be found a safe guide to the Practitioner in all ordinary proceedings."—Law Magazine and Review.

PRINCIPLES OF CONVEYANCING.

AN ELEMENTARY WORK FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS.

By HENRY C. DEANE,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, SOMETIME LECTURER TO THE INCORPORATED LAW SOCIETY OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

"Mr. Deane is one of the Lecturers of the Incorporated Law Society, and in his elementary work intended for the use of students, he embodies some lectures given at the hall of that society. It would weary our readers to take them over the ground necessarily covered by Mr. Deane. The first part is devoted to Corporeal Hereditaments, and the second to Conveyancing. The latter is prefaced by a very interesting 'History of Conveyancing,' and for practical purposes the chapter (Ch. 2, Part II.) on Conditions of Sale is decidedly valuable."—Law Times.

"We hope to see this book, like Snell's Equity, a standard class-book in all Law Schools where English law is taught."—CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

"It seems essentially the book for young conveyancers, and will, probably, in many cases supplant Williams. It is, in fact, a modern adaptation of Mr. Watkin's book on conveyancing, and is fully equal to its prototype."—Irish Law Times.

"Extremely useful to students, and especially to those gentlemen who are candidates for the various legal examinations. There are so many questions set now on case law that they would do well to peruse this treatise of Mr. Deane's, and use it in conjunction with a book of questions and answers. They will find a considerable amount of equity case law, especially in the second part of Mr. Deane's book, which comprises in substance some lectures delivered by the author at the Law Institution."—Law Journal.

A SUMMARY OF THE # LAW & PRACTICE IN ADMIRALTY.

FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS.

By EUSTACE SMITH,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE; AUTHOR OF "A SUMMARY OF COMPANY LAW."

"It is however, in our opinion, a well and carefully written little work, and should be in the hands of every student who is taking up Admiralty Law at the Final."—Law Students' Journal.

"The divisions of his book are sensible, his language is concise, and he has succeeded without over-weighting any part of it, to give the student a very just appreciation of the origin of the Courts of Admiralty, the claims that can be enforced in them, and the mode of practice as it at present exists. Altogether Mr. Eustace Smith has turned out a book in a small compass which is to be commended."—Articled Clerks' Journal.

"Mr. Smith has a happy knack of compressing a large amount of useful matter in a small compass, the present work will doubtless be received with satisfaction equal to that with which his previous 'Summary' has been met."—Oxford and Cambridge Undergraduates' Journal.

LAW AND PRACTICE IN THE ECCLESIASTICAL COURTS.

FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS.

By EUSTACE SMITH,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE; AUTHOR OF "A SUMMARY OF COMPANY LAW," AND "A SUMMARY OF THE LAW AND PRACTICE IN ADMIRALTY."

"His object has been, as he tells us in his preface, to give the student and general reader a fair outline of the scope and extent of ecclesiastical law, of the principles on which it is founded, of the Courts by which it is enforced, and the procedure by which these Courts are regulated. We think the book well fulfils its object. Its value is much enhanced by a profuse citation of authorities for the propositions contained in it."—Bar Examination Journal.

PRINCIPLES OF THE COMMON LAW.

INTENDED FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

SECOND EDITION.

By JOHN INDERMAUR, SOLICITOR,

AUTHOR OF "A MANUAL OF THE PRACTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT,"
"EPITOMES OF LEADING CASES," AND OTHER WORKS.

"Mr. Indermaur renders even law light reading. He not only possesses the faculty of judicious selection, but of lucid exposition and felicitous illustration. And while his works are all thus characterised, his 'Principles of the Common Law' especially displays those features. That it has already reached a second edition, testifies that our estimate of the work on its first appearance was not unduly favourable, highly as we then signified approval; nor needs it that we should add anything to that estimate in reference to the general scope and execution of the work. It only remains to say, that the present edition evinces that every care has been taken to insure thorough accuracy, while including all the modifications in the law that have taken place since the original publication; and that the references to the Irish decisions which have been now introduced are calculated to render the work of greater utility to practitioners and students, both English and Irish."
—Irish Law Times.

"This work, the author tells us in his Preface, is written mainly with a view to the examinations of the Incorporated Law Society; but we think it is likely to attain a wider usefulness. It seems, so far as we can judge from the parts we have examined, to be a careful and clear outline of the principles of the common law. It is very readable; and not only students, but many practitioners and the public might benefit by a perusal of its pages."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"Mr. Indermaur has very clear notions of what a law student should be taught to enable him to pass the examinations of the Incorporated Law Society. In this, his last work, the law is stated carefully and accurately, and the book will probably prove acceptable to students."—Law Times.

"Mr. Indermaur's book will doubtless be found a useful assistant in the legal pupil room. The statements of the law are, as far as they go, accurate, and have been skilfully reduced to the level of learners. Mr. Indermaur possesses one great merit of an instructor—he is able to bring out the salient points on wide subjects in a telling manner."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Indermaur has acquired a deservedly high reputation as a writer of convenient epitomes and compendiums of various branches of the Law for the use of students. Within the limits which the author has assigned to himself, he has certainly given proof of praiseworthy industry, accuracy, and clearness of exposition, which cannot fail to be of the greatest advantage to the law student. The practising solicitor will also find this a very useful compendium. Care has evidently been taken to note the latest decisions on important points of law. A full and well-constructed index supplies every facility for ready reference."—Law Magazine.

A MANUAL OF THE PRACTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE,

In the Queen's Bench and Chancery Divisions. Intended for the use of Students.

By JOHN INDERMAUR, Solicitor.

"This is a very useful student's book. It is clearly written, and gives such information as the student requires, without bewildering him with details. The portion relating to the Chancery Division forms an excellent introduction to the elements of the practice, and may be advantageously used not only by articulated clerks, but also by pupils entering the chambers of equity draftsmen."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Intended for the use of students, this book is executed with that accurate knowledge and care which distinguish Mr. Indermaur. It treats carefully of the steps to be taken in the several divisions, and in the appendix is given a table of some of the principal times of proceedings. Not only the student but the practitioner will find this little volume of use."—Law Times.

The first edition of this work was published in February, 1873, the second in April, 1874, and now we have a third edition dated September, 1875. No better proof of the value of this book can be furnished than the fact that in less than three years it has reached a third edition."—Law Journal.

SELF-PREPARATION FOR THE FINAL EXAMINATION. CONTAINING A COMPLETE COURSE OF STUDY, WITH STATUTES, CASES AND QUESTIONS;

And intended for the use of those Articled Clerks who read by themselves.

By JOHN INDERMAUR, Solicitor.

"In this edition Mr. Indermaur extends his counsels to the whole period from the intermediate examination to the final. His advice is practical and sensible: and if the course of study he recommends is intelligently followed, the articled clerk will have laid in a store of legal knowledge more than sufficient to carry him through the final examination."—Solicitors' Journal.

"This book contains recommendations as to how a complete course of study for the above examination should be carried out, with reference to the particular books to be read seriatim. We need only remark that it is essential for a student to be set on the right tack in his reading, and that any one of ordinary ability, who follows the course set out by Mr. Indermaur, ought to pass with great credit."—Law Journal.

SECOND EDITION, revised throughout, and considerably enlarged.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN,

M.A. EDIN. AND OXON., AND B.C.L. OXON., OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; AUTHOR OF THE "LAW OF FIXTURES," "ANALYSIS OF SAVIGNY'S OBLIGATIONS IN ROMAN LAW," ETC.

Reviews of the Second Edition.

"So far as we have been able to examine the work, it seems to have been most carefully and accurately executed, the present Edition, besides containing much new matter, having been thoroughly revised in consequence of the recent changes in the law; and we have no doubt whatever that it will be found extremely useful, not only to students and practitioners, but to public men, and men of letters."—IRISH LAW TIMES.

"Mr. Brown has revised his Dictionary, and adapted it to the changes effected by the Judicature Acts, and it now constitutes a very useful work to put into the hands of any student or articulated clerk, and a work which the practitioner will find of value for reference."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"It will prove a reliable guide to law students, and a handy book of reference for practitioners."—LAW TIMES.

"This work, laborious and difficult as it was, has been admirably carried out, and the work is really what it professes to be, a complete compendium. An index to a dictionary is a novelty, but from the exceptional nature of the contents, an index was likely to be most useful, and accordingly Mr. Brown has prefixed to the book a copious index by which a student can at once turn to the main body of the work and obtain the information he requires. Authorities and cases are abundantly cited, and Mr. Brown can claim with justice to call his book an institute of the whole law."—Standard.

"In a modest preface Mr. Brown introduces us to a rather ambitious work. He has endeavoured to compress into less than four hundred pages the whole law of England, and has evidently bestowed much pains on the execution of the task. He does not, however, aim at anything higher than rendering a service to students preparing for the Bar or for the lower branch of the profession, and there can be no doubt that he has produced a book of reference which will be useful to the class he has had in view. Mr. Brown has perhaps done about as much as any one, not a rare genius, could do, and his Dictionary will be serviceable to those who are in want of hints and references, and are content with a general idea of a law or legal principle. It is a handy book to have at one's elbow."—Saturday Review.

AND IN ALL OTHER OR GENERAL RELATIONS.

FOURTH EDITION.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN, M.A. Edin. and Oxon., and B.C.L. Oxon.,
OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"The author tells us that every endeavour has been made to make this Edition as complete as possible. We think he has been very successful. For instance, the changes effected by the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, have been well indicated, and a new chapter has been added with reference to the Law of Ecclesiastical Fixtures and Dilapidations. The book is worthy of the success it has achieved."—Law Times.

"We have touched on the principal features of this new edition, and we have not space for further remarks on the book itself: but we may observe that the particular circumstances of the cases cited are in all instances sufficiently detailed to make the principle of law clear; and though very many of the principles given are in the very words of the judges, at the same time the author has not spared to deduce his own observations, and the treatise is commendable as well for originality as for laboriousness."—Law Journal.

PRINCIPLES OF THE CRIMINAL LAW.

INTENDED AS A LUCID EXPOSITION OF THE SUBJECT FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

By SEYMOUR F. HARRIS, B.C.L., M.A. (OXON.),

AUTHOR OF "A CONCISE DIGEST OF THE INSTITUTES OF GAIIUS AND JUSTINIAN."

SECOND EDITION.

REVISED BY THE AUTHOR AND F. P. TOMLINSON, M.A.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

REVIEWS.

"The favourable opinion we expressed of the first edition of this work appears to have been justified by the reception it has met with. Looking through this new Edition, we see no reason to modify the praise we bestowed on the former Edition. The recent cases have been added and the provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction Act are noticed in the chapter relating to Summary Convictions. The book is one of the best manuals of Criminal Law for the student."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"There is no lack of Works on Criminal Law, but there was room for such a useful handbook of Principles as Mr. Seymour Harris has supplied. Accustomed, by his previous labours, to the task of analysing the law, Mr. Harris has brought to bear upon his present work qualifications well adapted to secure the successful accomplishment of the object which he had set before him. That object is not an ambitious one, for it does not pretend to soar above utility to the young practitioner and the student. For both these classes, and for the yet wider class who may require a book of reference on the subject, Mr. Harris has produced a clear and convenient Epitome of the Law. A noticeable feature of Mr. Harris's work, which is likely to prove of assistance both to the practitioner and the student, consists of a Table of Offences, with their legal character, their punishment, and the statute under which it is inflicted, together with a reference to the pages where a Statement of the Law will be found."—LAW MAGAZINE AND REVIEW.

"This work purports to contain 'a concise exposition of the nature of crime, the various offences punishable by the English law, the law of criminal procedure, and the law of summary convictions,' with tables of offences, punishments, and statutes. The work is divided into four books. Book I. treats of crime, its divisions and essentials; of persons capable of committing crimes; and of principals and accessories. Book II. deals with offences of a public nature; offences against private persons; and offences against the property of individuals. Each crime is discussed in its turn, with as much brevity as could well be used consistently with a proper explanation of the legal characteristics of the several offences. Book III. explains criminal procedure, including the jurisdiction of Courts, and the various steps in the apprehension and trial of criminals from arrest to punishment. This part of the work is extremely well done, the description of the trial being excellent, and thoroughly calculated to impress the mind of the uninitiated. Book IV. contains a short sketch of 'summary convictions before magistrates out of quarter sessions.' The table of offences at the end of the volume is most useful, and there is a very full index. Altogether we must congratulate Mr. Harris on his adventure."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Harris has undertaken a work, in our opinion, so much needed that he might diminish its bulk in the next edition by obliterating the apologetic preface. The appearance of his volume is as well timed as its execution is satisfactory. The author has shown an ability of omission which is a good test of skill, and from the overwhelming mass of the criminal law he has discreetly selected just so much only as a learner needs to know, and has presented it in terms which render it capable of being easily taken into the mind. The first half of the volume is devoted to indictable offences, which are defined and explained in succinct terms; the second half treats of the prevention of offences, the courts of criminal jurisdiction, arrest, preliminary proceedings before magistrates, and modes of prosecuting and trial; and a brief epitome of the laws of evidence, proceedings after trial, and summary convictions, with a table of offences, complete the book. The part on procedure will be found particularly useful. Few young counsel, on their first appearance at sessions, have more than a loose and general notion of the manner in which a trial is conducted, and often commit blunders which, although trifling in kind, are nevertheless seriously discouraging and annoying to themselves at the outset of their career. From even such a blunder as that of mistaking the order in which the speeches are made and witnesses examined, they may be saved by the table of instructions given here."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

A TREATISE ON

THE STATUTES OF ELIZABETH AGAINST FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

THE BILLS OF SALE REGISTRATION ACTS AND THE LAW OF VOLUNTARY DISPOSITIONS OF PROPERTY GENERALLY.

By H. W. MAY, B.A., (Ch. Ch. Oxford),

AND OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"This treatise has not been published before it was wanted. The statutes of Elizabeth against fraudulent conveyances have now been in force for more than three hundred years. The decisions under them are legion in number, and not at all times consistent with each other. An attempt to reduce the mass of decisions into something like shape, and the exposition of legal principles involved in the decisions, under any circumstances, must have been a work of great labour, and we are pleased to observe that in the book before us there has been a combination of unusual labour with considerable professional skill. . . . We cannot conclude our notice of this work without saying that it reflects great credit on the publishers as well as the author. The facilities afforded by Messrs. Stevens and Haynes for the publication of treatises by rising men in our profession are deserving of all praise. We feel assured that they do not lightly lend their aid to works presented for publication, and that in consequence publication by such a firm is to some extent a guarantee of the value of the work published."—Canada Law Journal.

"Examining Mr. May's book, we find it constructed with an intelligence and precision which render it entirely worthy of being accepted as a guide in this confessedly difficult subject. The subject is an involved one, but with clean and clear handling it is here presented as clearly as it could be. . . . On the whole, he has produced a very useful book of an exceptionally scientific character."—Solicitors' Journal.

"The subject and the work are both very good. The former is well chosen, new, and interesting; the latter has the quality which always distinguishes original research from borrowed labours."—American Law Review.

"We are happy to welcome his (Mr. May's) work as an addition to the, we regret to say, brief catalogue of law books conscientiously executed. We can corroborate his own description of his labours, 'that no pains have been spared to make the book as concise and practical as possible, without doing so at the expense of perspicuity, or by the omission of any important points.'"—Law Times.

SCOTLAND, IRELAND, AND THE UNITED STATES.

By RICHARD LOVELAND LOVELAND,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"This is an interesting and valuable book. It treats of one of those obscure branches of the law which there is no great inducement for a legal writer to take up. . . . Mr. Hall, whose first edition was issued in 1830, was a writer of considerable power and method. Mr. Loveland's editing reflects the valuable qualities of the 'Essay' itself. He has done his work without pretension, but in a solid and efficient manner. The 'Summary of Contents' gives an admirable epitome of the chief points discussed in the 'Essay,' and indeed, in some twenty propositions, supplies a useful outline of the whole law. Recent cases are noted at the foot of each page with great care and accuracy, while an Appendix contains much valuable matter; including Lord Hale's treatise De Jure Maris, about which there has been so much controversy, and Serjeant Merewether's learned argument on the rights in the river Thames. The book will, we think, take its place as the modern authority on the subject."—Law Journal.

"The treatise, as originally published, was one of considerable value, and has ever since been quoted as a standard authority. But as time passed, and cases accumulated, its value diminished, as it was necessary to supplement it so largely by reference to cases since decided. A tempting opportunity was, therefore, offered to an intelligent editor to supply this defect in the work, and Mr. Loveland has seized it, and proved his capacity in a very marked manner. As very good specimens of annotation, showing clear judgment in selection, we may refer to the subject of alluvion at page 109, and the rights of fishery at page 50. At the latter place he begins his notes by stating under what expressions a 'several fishery' has been held to pass, proceeding subsequently to the evidence which is sufficient to support a claim to ownership of a fishery. The important question under what circumstances property can be acquired in the soil between high and low water mark is lucidly discussed at page 77, whilst at page 81 we find a pregnant note on the property of a grantee of wreck in goods stranded within his liberty.

"We think we can promise Mr. Loveland the reward for which alone he says he looks—that this edition of Hall's Essay will prove a most decided assistance to those engaged in cases relating to the foreshores of the country."—Law Times.

"The entire book is masterly."—ALBANY LAW JOURNAL.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW RELATING TO THE

POLLUTION AND OBSTRUCTION OF WATER COURSES;

TOGETHER WITH A BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE VARIOUS SOURCES OF RIVERS POLLUTION.

By CLEMENT HIGGINS, M.A., F.C.S.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"As a compendium of the law upon a special and rather intricate subject, this treatise cannot but prove of great practical value, and more especially to those who have to advise upon the institution of proceedings under the Rivers Pollution Preventive Act, 1876, or to adjudicate upon those proceedings when brought."—Irish Law Times.

"We can recommend Mr. Higgins' Manual as the best guide we possess."—Public Health.

"County Court Judges, Sanitary Authorities, and Riparian Owners will find in Mr. Higgins' Treatise a valuable aid in obtaining a clear notion of the Law on the Subject. Mr. Higgins has accomplished a work for which he will readily be recognised as having special fitness, on account of his practical acquaintance both with the scientific and the legal aspects of his subject."—Law Magazine and Review.

"The volume is very carefully arranged throughout, and will prove of great utility both to miners and to owners of land on the banks of rivers."—The Mining Journal.

"Mr. Higgins writes tersely and clearly, while his facts are so well arranged that it is a pleasure to refer to his book for information; and altogether the work is one which will be found very useful by all interested in the subject to which it relates."—Engineer.

MAYNE'S TREATISE ON THE LAW OF DAMAGES.

THIRD EDITION.

BY

JOHN D. MAYNE,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW;

AND

LUMLEY SMITH,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, Q.C.

"During the twenty-two years which have elapsed since the publication of this well-known work, its reputation has been steadily growing, and it has long since become the recognised authority on the important subject of which it treats."—LAW MAGAZINE AND REVIEW.

"This edition of what has become a standard work has the advantage of appearing under the supervision of the original author as well as of Mr. Lumley Smith, the editor of the second edition. The result is most satisfactory. Mr. Lumley Smith's edition was ably and conscientiously prepared, and we are glad to find that the reader still enjoys the benefit of his accuracy and learning. At the same time the book has doubtless been improved by the reappearance of its author as co-editor. The earlier part, indeed, has been to a considerable extent entirely rewritten.

"Upon the general principles, according to which damages are to be assessed in actions of contract, Hadley v. Baxendale (9 Ex. 341) still remains the leading authority, and furnishes the text for the discussion contained in the second chapter of Mr. Mayne's book. Properly understood and limited, the rule proposed in that case, although in one respect not very happily worded, is a sound one, and has been repeatedly approved both in England and America. The subsequent decisions, which are concisely summarized by Mr. Mayne, have established that mere knowledge of special circumstances is not enough, unless it can be inferred from the whole transaction that the contractor consented to become liable to the extra damage. This limitation is obviously just, especially in the case of persons, such as common carriers, who have no option to refuse the contract. Mere knowledge on their part of special circumstances ought not, and, according to the dicta of the judges in the Exchequer Chamber in Horne v. Midland Railway Company (21 W. R. 481, L. R. 8 C. P. 131), would not involve the carrier in additional responsibility. Mr. Mayne's criticism of the numerous cases in which this matter has been considered leaves nothing to be desired, and the rules he deduces therefrom (pp. 32, 33) appear to us to exhaust the subject.

"Mr. Mayne's remarks on damages in actions of tort are brief. We agree with him that in such actions the courts are governed by far looser principles than in contracts; indeed, sometimes it is impossible to say they are governed by any principles at all. In actions for injuries to the person or reputation, for example, a judge cannot do more than give a general direction to the jury to give what the facts proved in their judgment required. And, according to the better opinion they may give damages 'for example's sake,' and mulct a rich man more heavily than a poor one. In actions for injuries to property, however, 'vindictive' or 'exemplary' damages cannot, except in very rare cases, be awarded, but must be limited, as in contract, to the actual harm sustained.

"The subject of remoteness of damage is treated at considerable length by Mr. Mayne, and we notice that much new matter has been added. Thus the recent case of Riding v. Smith (24 W. R. 487, 1 Ex. D. 91) furnishes the author with an opportunity of discussing the well-known rule in Ward v. Weeks (7 Bing. 217) that injury resulting from the repetition of a slander is not actionable. The rule has always seemed to us a strange one, if a man is to be made responsible for the natural consequences of his acts. For every one who utters a slander may be perfectly certain that it will be repeated.

"It is needless to comment upon the arrangement of the subjects in this edition, in which no alteration has been made. The editors modestly express a hope that all the English as well as the principal Irish decisions up to the date have been included, and we believe from our own examination that the hope is well founded. We may regret that, warned by the growing bulk of the book, the editors have not included any fresh American cases, but we feel that the omission was unavoidable. We should add that the whole work has been thoroughly revised."—Solicitor's Journal.

"This text-book is so well known, not only as the highest authority on the subject treated of, but as one of the best text-books ever written, that it would be idle for us to speak of it in the words of commendation that it deserves. It is a work that no practising lawyer can do without."—CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

In the Court of Queen's Bench before the Lord Chief Justice COCKBURN. With an Introduction, containing a History of the Case, and an Examination of the Cases at Law and Equity applicable to it; or Illustrating THE DOCTRINE OF COMMERCIAL FRAUD. By W. F. FINLASON, Barrister-at-Law.

"It will probably be a very long time before the prosecution of the Overend and Gurney directors is forgotten. It remains as an example, and a legal precedent of considerable value. It involved the immensely important question where innocent misrepresentation ends, and where fraudulent misrepresentation begins.

"All who perused the report of this case in the columns of the Times, must have observed the remarkable fulness and accuracy with which that duty was discharged, and nothing could be more natural than that the reporter should publish a separate report in book form. This has been done, and Mr. Finlason introduces the report by one hundred pages of dissertation on the general law. To this we shall proceed to refer, simply remarking before doing so, that the charge to the jury has been carefully revised by the Lord Chief Justice."

"We have just received at a very opportune moment the new edition of this useful work. We need only say that those who have to do with elections will find 'Bushby's Manual' replete with information and trustworthy, and that Mr. Hardcastle has incorporated all the recent changes of the law."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Hardcastle gives us an original treatise with foot notes, and he has evidently taken very considerable pains to make his work a reliable guide. Beginning with the effect of the Election Petitions Act, 1868, he takes his readers step by step through the new procedure. His mode of treating the subject of 'particulars' will be found extremely useful, and he gives all the law and practice in a very small compass. In an Appendix is supplied the Act and the Rules. We can thoroughly recommend Mr. Hardcastle's book as a concise manual on the law and practice of election petitions."—Law Times.

REVISED AND EDITED BY

RICHARD LOVELAND LOVELAND,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; EDITOR OF "KELYNG'S CROWN CASES," AND "HALL'S ESSAY ON THE RIGHTS OF THE CROWN IN THE SEASHORE."

"Messrs. STEVENS & HAYNES, the successful publishers of the Reprints of Bellewe, Cooke, Cunningham, Brookes's New Cases, Choyce Cases in Chancery, William Kelynge and Kelyng's Crown Cases, determined to issue a new or fourth Edition of Shower's Cases in Parliament.

"The volume, although beautifully printed on old-fashioned Paper, in old-fashioned type, instead of being in the quarto, is in the more convenient octavo form, and contains several additional cases not to be found in any of the previous editions of the work.

"These are all cases of importance, worthy of being ushered into the light of the world by enterprising publishers.

"Shower's Cases are models for reporters, even in our day. The statements of the case, the arguments of counsel, and the opinions of the Judges, are all clearly and ably given.

"This new edition with an old face of these valuable reports, under the able editorship of R. L. Loveland, Esq., should, in the language of the advertisement, 'be welcomed by the profession, as well as enable the custodians of public libraries to complete or add to their series of English Law Reports.'"—Canada Law Journal.

"We have here a fac-simile edition of Bellewe, and it is really the most beautiful and admirable reprint that has appeared at any time. It is a perfect gem of antique printing, and forms a most interesting monument of our early legal history. It belongs to the same class of works as the Year Book of Edward I. and other similar works which have been printed in our own time under the auspices of the Master of the Rolls; but is far superior to any of them, and is in this respect highly creditable to the spirit and enterprise of private publishers. The work is an important link in our legal history; there are no year books of the reign of Richard II., and Bellewe supplied the only substitute by carefully extracting and collecting all the cases he could find, and he did it in the most convenient form—that of alphabetical arrangement in the order of subjects, so that the work is a digest as well as a book of law reports. It is in fact a collection of cases of the reign of Richard II., arranged according to their subjects in alphabetical order. It is therefore, one of the most intelligible and interesting legal memorials of the Middle Ages."—Law Times.

"The instructive chapter which precedes the cases, entitled 'A proposal for rendering the Laws of England clear and certain,' gives the volume a degree of peculiar interest, independent of the value of many of the reported cases. That chapter begins with words which ought, for the information of ry people, to be printed in letters of gold. They are as follows: 'Nothing conduces more to the peace and prosperity of every nation than good laws and the due execution of them.' The history of the civil law is then rapidly traced. Next a history is given of English Reporters, beginning with the reporters of the Year Books from 1 Edw. III. to 12 Hen. VIII.—being near 200 years—and afterwards to the time of the author."—Canada Law Journal.

"We look upon this volume as one of the most important and valuable of the unique reprints of Messrs Stevens and Haynes. Little do we know of the mines of legal wealth that lie buried in the old law books. But a careful examination, either of the reports or of the treatise embodied in the volume now before us, will give the reader some idea of the

A CONCISE TREATISE ON PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL JURISPRUDENCE,
BASED ON THE DECISIONS IN THE ENGLISH COURTS.

By JOHN ALDERSON FOOTE,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW; CHANCELLOR'S LEGAL MEDALLIST AND SENIOR WHEWELL SCHOLAR
OF INTERNATIONAL LAW CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY, 1873; SENIOR STUDENT IN JURISPRUDENCE AND ROMAN LAW, INNS OF COURT EXAMINATION, HILARY TERM, 1874.

"This work seems to us likely to prove of considerable use to all English lawyers who have to deal with questions of private international law. Since the publication of Mr. Westlake's valuable treatise twenty years ago, the judicial decisions of English courts bearing upon different parts of this subject have greatly increased in number, and it is full time that these decisions should be examined, and that the conclusions to be deduced from them should be systematically set forth in a treatise. Moreover, Mr. Foote has done this well."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Mr. Foote has done his work very well, and the book will be useful to all who have to deal with the class of cases in which English law alone is not sufficient to settle the question."—Saturday Review, March 8, 1879.

"The author's object has been to reduce into order the mass of materials already accumulated in the shape of explanation and actual decision on the interesting matter of which he treats; and to construct a framework of private international law, not from the dicta of jurists so much as from judicial decisions in English Courts which have superseded them. And it is here, in compiling and arranging in a concise form this valuable material, that Mr. Foote's wide range of knowledge and legal acumen bear such good fruit. As a guide and assistant to the student of international law, the whole treatise will be invaluable: while a table of cases and a general index will enable him to find what he wants without trouble."—Standard.

"The recent decisions on points of international law (and there have been a large number since Westlake's publication) have been well stated. So far as we have observed, no case of any importance has been omitted, and the leading cases have been fully analysed. The author does not hesitate to criticise the grounds of a decision when these appear to him to conflict with the proper rule of law. Most of his criticisms seem to us very just. . . . On the whole we can recommend Mr. Foote's treatise as a useful addition to our text-books, and we expect it will rapidly find its way into the hands of practising lawyers."—The Journal of Jurisprudence and Scottish Law Magazine.

"Mr. Foote has evidently borne closely in mind the needs of Students of Jurisprudence as well as those of the Practitioners. For both, the fact that his work is almost entirely one of Case-law, will commend it as one useful alike in Chambers and in Court."—Law Magazine and Review.

"Mr. Foote's book will be useful to the student. . . . One of the best points of Mr. Foote's book is the 'Continuous Summary,' which occupies about thirty pages, and is divided into four parts—Persons, Property, Acts, and Procedure. Mr. Foote remarks that these summaries are not in any way intended as an attempt at codification. However that may be, they are a digest which reflects high credit on the author's assiduity and capacity. They are 'meant merely to guide the student;' but they will do much more than guide him. They will enable him to get such a grasp of the subject as will render the reading of the text easy and fruitful."—Law Journal.

"This book is well adapted to be used both as a text-book for students and a book of reference for practising barristers."—Bar Examination Journal.

"This is a book which supplies the want which has long been felt for a really good modern treatise on Private International Law adapted to the every-day requirements of the English Practitioner. The whole volume, although designed for the use of the practitioner, is so moderate in size—an octavo of 500 pages only—and the arrangement and development of the subject so well conceived and executed, that it will amply repay perusal by those whose immediate object may be not the actual decisions of a knotty point but the satisfactory disposal of an examination paper."—Oxford and Cambridge Undergraduates' Journal.

"Since the publication, some twenty years ago, of Mr. Westlake's Treatise, Mr. Foote's book is, in our opinion, the best work on private international law which has appeared in the English language. . . . The work is executed with much ability, and will doubtless be found of great value by all persons who have to consider questions on private international law."—Athenæum.

A TREATISE ON HINDU LAW AND USAGE.

By JOHN D. MAYNE, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law, Author of "A Treatise on Damages," &c.

"A new work from the pen of so established an authority as Mr. Mayne cannot fail to be welcome to the legal profession. In his present volume the late Officiating Advocate-General at Madras has drawn upon the stores of his long experience in Southern India, and has produced a work of value alike to the practitioner at the Indian Bar, or at home, in appeal cases, and to the scientific jurist.

"To all who, whether as practitioners or administrators, or as students of the science of jurisprudence, desire a thoughtful and suggestive work of reference on Hindu Law and Usage, we heartily recommend the careful perusal of Mr. Mayne's valuable treatise."

A SUMMARY OF JOINT STOCK COMPANIES' LAW.

By T. EUSTACE SMITH,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"The author of this hand-book tells us that, when an articulated student reading for the final examination, he felt the want of such a work as that before us, wherein could be found the main principles of law relating to joint-stock companies . . . Law students may well read it; for Mr. Smith has very wisely been at the pains of giving his authority for all his statements of the law or of practice, as applied to joint-stock company business usually transacted in solicitor's chambers. In fact, Mr. Smith has by his little book offered a fresh inducement to students to make themselves—at all events, to some extent—acquainted with company law as a separate branch of study."—Law Times.

"These pages give, in the words of the preface, 'as briefly and concisely as possible, a general view both of the principles and practice of the law affecting companies. The work is excellently printed, and authorities are cited; but in no case is the very language of the statutes copied. The plan is good, and shows both grasp and neatness, and, both amongst students and laymen, Mr. Smith's book ought to meet a ready sale.'—Law Journal.

"The book is one from which we have derived a large amount of valuable information, and we can heartily and conscientiously recommend it to our readers."—Oxford and Cambridge Undergraduates' Journal.

THE LAW OF NEGLIGENCE.

SECOND EDITION.

By ROBERT CAMPBELL, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, and Advocate of the Scotch Bar.

"A new edition has appeared of Mr. Campbell's excellent work on 'The Law of Negligence,' in which no pains have been spared in collecting cases, and the style of which is clear and easy."—Saturday Review, March 8, 1879.

"No less an authority than the late Mr. Justice Willes, in his judgment in Oppenheim v. White Lion Hotel Co., characterised Mr. Campbell's 'Law of Negligence' as a 'very good book,' and since very good books are by no means plentiful, when compared with the numbers of indifferent ones which annually issue from the press, we think the profession will be thankful to the author of this new edition brought down to date. It is indeed an able and scholarly treatise on a somewhat difficult branch of law, in the treatment of which the author's knowledge of Roman and Scotch Jurisprudence has stood him in good stead. We confidently recommend it alike to the student and the practitioner."—Law Magazine.

WITH COMPLETE FORMS OF ORDERS.

SECOND EDITION, CONSIDERABLY ENLARGED.

By LOFTUS LEIGH PEMBERTON,

ONE OF THE REGISTRARS OF THE SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE; AUTHOR OF "THE PRACTICE IN EQUITY BY WAY OF REVIVOR AND SUPPLEMENT."

REVIEWS OF THE FIRST EDITION.

"This is a work with an unpretending title, which in reality contains much more than would naturally be inferred from its title page. . . . The work before us contains, not only a copious and well-selected assortment of precedents, taken in every instance from orders actually made (and with proper references to the reports in all instances of reported cases), but also a series of notes, in which the result of the leading cases is succinctly given in a highly-convenient, though somewhat fragmentary, form; by the light of which the practitioner will, in all ordinary cases, be easily able to adapt the opposite precedent to the general circumstances of his own case. We consider the book one of great merit and utility, and we confidently recommend it to the consideration of the Profession."—Solicitors' Journal.

"This volume, Mr. Pemberton tells us, is the result of labour commenced so long ago as 1860. It has had the benefit, therefore, of patient care, and patience and care having been backed up by extensive knowledge and keen discrimination, a work has been produced which, whilst it is not likely to bring its author any high reward, must permanently record his name in legal literature, and prove to the Profession and the Bench a very decided acquisition.

"Mr. Pemberton has digested the cases without expressing any opinion as to their soundness or applicability—not giving head notes, as too many text writers are fond of doing, without taking the trouble to consider whether the reporter has correctly epitomised the case, but stating in a few words the effect of each decision. This makes the work a compendium of case law on the various subjects comprehended in it. How comprehensive it is we find it impossible accurately to represent to our readers without setting out the table of contents. We have looked through it more than once; we have carefully examined the citations, and we have formed the very highest opinion of the plan of the work and its execution, and we feel that Mr. Pemberton has placed the entire profession under a lasting obligation."—Law Times.

"The operation of the Judicature Acts, with the new rules and orders, not only made an opportunity for, but even necessitated, a new publication of forms of judgments and orders. We may safely say that Mr. Loftus Leigh Pemberton's work, in our opinion, should take its rank among the most valuable publications that have been issued of late."—Law Journal.

A CONCISE TREATISE ON THE ## STATUTE LAW OF THE LIMITATIONS OF ACTIONS.

With an Appendix of Statutes, Copious References to English, Irish, and American Cases, and to the French Code, and a Copious Index.

By HENRY THOMAS BANNING, M.A.,
OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"In this work Mr. Banning has grappled with one of the most perplexing branches of our statute law. The law, as laid down by the judicial decisions on the various Statutes of Limitations, is given in thirty-three short chapters under as many headings, and each chapter treats of a sub-division of one of the main branches of the subject; thus we have ten chapters devoted to real property. This arrangement entails a certain amount of repetition, but is not without its advantages, as the subject of each chapter is tolerably exhaustively treated of within the limits of a few pages. We think that in this respect the author has exercised a wise discretion. So far as we have tested the cases cited, the effect of the numerous decisions appears to be accurately given—indeed, the author has, as we are informed in the preface, 'so far as is consistent with due brevity, employed the ipsissima verba of the tribunal;' and the cases are brought down to a very recent date. . . . The substance of the book is satisfactory; and we may commend it both to students and practitioners."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Mr. Banning's 'Concise Treatise' justifies its title. He brings into a convenient compass a general view of the law as to the limitation of actions as it exists under numerous statutes, and a digest of the principal reported cases relating to the subject which have arisen in the English and American courts."—Saturday Review.

"Mr. Banning has adhered to the plan of printing the Acts in an appendix, and making his book a running treatise on the case-law thereon. The cases have evidently been investigated with care and digested with clearness and intellectuality."—Law Journal.

And the Rules thereunder; THE MERCHANDISE MARKS ACT, 1862, with an Introduction containing a SUMMARY OF THE LAW OF TRADE MARKS, together with practical Notes and Instructions, and a copious INDEX. By EDWARD MORTON DANIEL, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

"The last of the works on this subject, that by Mr. Daniel, appears to have been very carefully done. Mr. Daniel's book is a satisfactory and useful guide."—The Engineer.

"This treatise contains, within moderate compass, the whole of the law, as far as practically required, on the subject of trade marks. The publication is opportune, the subject being one which must nearly concern a considerable portion of the public, and it may be recommended to all who desire to take advantage of the protection afforded by registration under the new legislation. It is practical, and seems to be complete in every respect. The volume is well printed and neatly got up."—Law Times.

THE PARTITION ACTS, 1868 & 1876,

A MANUAL OF THE LAW OF PARTITION AND OF SALE
IN LIEU OF PARTITION.

With the Decided Cases, and an Appendix containing Decrees and Orders.

By W. GREGORY WALKER,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, B.A., AND LATE SCHOLAR OF EXETER COLLEGE, OXFORD.

"This is a very painstaking and praiseworthy little treatise. That such a work has now been published needs, in fact, only to be announced; for, meeting as it does an undoubted requirement, it is sure to secure a place in the library of every equity practitioner. . . . We are gratified to be able to add our assurance that the practitioner will find that his confidence has not been misplaced, and that Mr. Walker's manual, compact and inexpensive as it is, is equally exhaustive and valuable."—Irish Law Times.

"This handy-book contains the above-mentioned Partition Acts, with a manual of the law of partition, and of sale in lieu of partition, and with the decided cases and an appendix containing decrees and orders. There are so many actions under the Partition Acts, that there is little doubt this small volume, containing as it does not merely references to all the reported cases, but the pith of the decisions extracted therefrom, will prove exceedingly useful. The appendix of decrees and orders, taken from the registrar's books kept in the Report Office, will be of great service to solicitors and counsel in settling minutes. Several of the judgments quoted will also help to keep those who have the conduct of partition suits in the right road."—Law Journal.

A TREATISE ON THE

LAW AND PRACTICE RELATING TO INFANTS.

By ARCHIBALD H. SIMPSON, M.A.,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, ESQ., BARRISTER-AT-LAW, AND FELLOW OF CHRIST'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

"Mr. Simpson's book comprises the whole of the law relating to infants, both as regards their persons and their property, and we have not observed any very important omissions. The author has evidently expended much trouble and care upon his work, and has brought together, in a concise and convenient form, the law upon the subject down to the present time."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Its law is unimpeachable. We have detected no errors, and whilst the work might have been done more scientifically, it is, beyond all question, a compendium of sound legal principles."—Law Times.

"Mr. Simpson has arranged the whole of the Law relating to Infants with much fullness of detail, and yet in comparatively little space. The result is due mainly to the businesslike condensation of his style. Fullness, however, has by no means been sacrificed to brevity, and, so far as we have been able to test it, the work omits no point of any importance, from the earliest cases to the last. In the essential qualities of clearness, completeness, and orderly arrangement it leaves nothing to be desired.

"Lawyers in doubt on any point of law or practice will find the information they require, if it can be found at all, in Mr. Simpson's book, and a writer of whom this can be said may congratulate himself on having achieved a considerable success."—Law Magazine, February, 1876.

"The reputation of 'Simpson on Infants' is now too perfectly established to need any encomiums on our part: and we can only say that, as the result of our own experience, we have invariably found this work an exhaustive and trustworthy repository of information on every question connected with the law and practice relating to its subject."—Irish Law Times, July 7, 1877.

THE LAW CONCERNING THE

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS

IN ENGLAND AND WALES, AND AT SEA.

Being the whole Statute Law upon the subject; together with a list of Registration Fees and Charges. Edited with Copious Explanatory Notes and References, and an Elaborate Index. By ARTHUR JOHN FLAXMAN, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"Mr. Flaxman's unpretentious but admirable little book makes the duties of all parties under the Act abundantly clear. . . . Lawyers will find the book not only handy, but also instructive and suggestive. To registrars, and all persons engaged in the execution of the law, the book will be invaluable. The index occupies thirty-five pages, and is so full that information on a minute point can be obtained without trouble. It is an index that must have cost the author much thought and time. The statements of what is to be done, who may do it, and what must not be done, are so clear that it is well-nigh impossible for any one who consults the book to err. Those who use Flaxman's 'Registration of Births and Deaths' will admit that our laudatory criticism is thoroughly merited."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Arthur John Flaxman, barrister-at-law, of the Middle Temple, has published a small work on 'The Law concerning the Registration of Births and Deaths in England and Wales, and at Sea.' Mr. Flaxman has pursued the only possible plan, giving the statutes and references to cases. The remarkable feature is the index, which fills no less than 35 out of a total of 112 pages. The index alone would be extremely useful, and is worth the money asked for the work."—Law Times.

THE LAW OF EXTRADITION.

Second Edition, in 8vo, price 18s., cloth,

A TREATISE UPON

THE LAW OF EXTRADITION,

WITH THE

CONVENTIONS UPON THE SUBJECT EXISTING BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FOREIGN NATIONS,

AND THE CASES DECIDED THEREON.

By EDWARD CLARKE,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, Q.C.

"Mr. Clarke's accurate and sensible book is the best authority to which the English reader can turn upon the subject of Extradition."—Saturday Review.

"The opinion we expressed of the merits of this work when it first appeared has been fully justified by the reputation it has gained. This new edition, embodying and explaining the recent legislation on extradition, is likely to sustain that reputation. . . . There are other points we had marked for comment, but we must content ourselves with heartily commending this new edition to the attention of the profession. It is seldom we come across a book possessing so much interest to the general reader and at the same time furnishing so useful a guide to the lawyer."—Solicitors' Journal.

"The appearance of a second edition of this treatise does not surprise us. It is a useful book, well arranged and well written. A student who wants to learn the principles and practice of the law of extradition will be greatly helped by Mr. Clarke. Lawyers who have extradition business will find this volume an excellent book of reference. Magistrates who have to administer the extradition law will be greatly assisted by a careful perusal of 'Clarke upon Extradition.' This may be called a warm commendation, but those who have read the book will not say it is unmerited. We have so often to expose the false pretenders to legal authorship that it is a pleasure to meet with a volume that is the useful and unpretending result of honest work. Besides the Appendix, which contains the extradition conventions of this country since 1843, we have eight chapters. The first is 'Upon the Duty of Extradition'; the second on the 'Early Treaties and Cases'; the others on the law in the United States, Canada, England, and France, and the practice in those countries."—Law Journal.

"One of the most interesting and valuable contributions to legal literature which it has been our province to notice for a long time, is 'Clarke's Treatise on the Law of Extradition.' . . . Mr. Clarke's work comprises chapters upon the Duty of Extradition; Early Treaties and Cases; History of the Law in the United States, in Canada, in England, in France, &c., with an Appendix containing the Conventions existing between England and Foreign Nations, and the cases decided thereon. . . . The work is ably prepared throughout, and should form a part of the library of every lawyer interested in great Constitutional or International Questions."—Albany Law Journal.

THE TIMES of September 7, 1874, in a long article upon "Extradition Treaties," makes considerable use of this work, and writes of it as "Mr. Clarke's useful Work on Extradition."

PRACTICE OF CONVEYANCING.

In 8vo, price 2s. 6d., cloth,

TABLES OF STAMP DUTIES
FROM 1815 TO THE PRESENT TIME.

By WALTER ARTHUR COPINGER,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, ESQUIRE BARRISTER-AT-LAW: AUTHOR OF "THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT IN WORKS OF LITERATURE AND ART," "INDEX
TO PRECEDENTS IN CONVEYANCING," "TITLE DEEDS," &c.

"Conveyancers owe Mr. Copinger a debt of gratitude for his valuable Index to Precedents in Conveyancing; and we think the little book now before us will add to their obligations. Mr. Copinger gives, first of all, an abstract of the Stamp Act, 1870, with the special regulations affecting conveyances, mortgages, and settlements in full. He then presents in a tabular form the ad valorem stamp duties on conveyances, mortgages, and settlements, payable in England from the 1st of September, 1815, to the 10th of October, 1850, and then tables of ad valorem duties payable on the three classes of instruments since the last-mentioned date, and at the present time: arranged very clearly in columns. We cannot pretend to have checked the figures, but those we have looked at are correct: and we think this little book ought to find its way into a good many chambers and offices."—Solicitors' Journal.

"This book, or at least one containing the same amount of valuable and well-arranged information, should find a place in every Solicitor's office. It is of especial value when examining the abstract of a large number of old title deeds."—Law Times.

"His Tables of Stamp Duties, from 1815 to 1878, have already been tested in Chambers, and being now published, will materially lighten the labours of the profession in a tedious department, yet one requiring great care."—Law Magazine and Review.

In one volume, 8vo, price 14s., cloth,

TITLE DEEDS:

THEIR CUSTODY, INSPECTION, AND PRODUCTION, AT LAW, IN EQUITY, AND IN MATTERS OF CONVEYANCING,

Including Covenants for the Production of Deeds and Attested Copies; with an Appendix of Precedents, the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, &c., &c., &c. By WALTER ARTHUR COPINGER, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law; Author of "The Law of Copyright" and "Index to Precedents in Conveyancing."

"In dealing with 'documentary evidence at law and in equity and in matters of conveyancing, including covenants for the production of deeds and attested copies,' Mr. Copinger has shown discrimination, for it is a branch of the general subject of evidence which is very susceptible of independent treatment. We are glad, therefore, to be able to approve both of the design and the manner in which it has been executed.

"The literary execution of the work is good enough to invite quotation, but the volume is not large and we content ourselves with recommending it to the profession."—Law Times.

"A really good treatise on this subject must be essential to the lawyer: and this is what we have here. Mr. Copinger has supplied a much-felt want, by the compilation of this volume. We have not space to go into the details of the book; it appears well arranged, clearly written, and fully elaborated. With these few remarks we recommend this volume to our readers."—Law Journal.

In 8vo, Second Edition, considerably enlarged, price 30s., cloth,

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT,

In Works of Literature and Art; including that of the Drama, Music, Engraving, Sculpture, Painting, Photography, and Ornamental and Useful Designs; together with International and Foreign Copyright, with the Statutes Relating thereto, and References to the English and American Decisions. By WALTER ARTHUR COPINGER, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"Mr. Copinger's book is very comprehensive, dealing with every branch of his subject, and even extending to copyright in foreign countries. So far as we have examined, we have found all the recent authorities noted up with scrupulous care, and there is an unusually good index. There are merits which will, doubtless, lead to the placing of this Edition on the shelves of the members of the profession whose business is concerned with copyright; and deservedly, for the book is one of considerable value."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Meanwhile we recommend Mr. Copinger's volume as a clear and convenient work of reference on the many knotty points connected with the existing Law of Copyright, national and international."—Notes and Queries.

A MAGISTERIAL AND POLICE GUIDE:

BEING THE STATUTE LAW,

INCLUDING THE SESSION 43 VICT. 1880.

WITH NOTES AND REFERENCES TO THE DECIDED CASES,

RELATING TO THE

PROCEDURE, JURISDICTION, AND DUTIES OF MAGISTRATES AND POLICE AUTHORITIES,

IN THE METROPOLIS AND IN THE COUNTRY.

With an Introduction showing the General Procedure before Magistrates both in Indictable and Summary Matters, as altered by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, together with the Rules under the said Act.

By HENRY C. GREENWOOD,

STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATE FOR THE DISTRICT OF THE STAFFORDSHIRE POTTERIES; AND

TEMPLE C. MARTIN,

CHIEF CLERK OF THE LAMBETH POLICE COURT.

"A second edition has appeared of Messrs. Greenwood and Martin's valuable and comprehensive magisterial and police Guide, a book which Justices of the peace should take care to include in their Libraries."—Saturday Review.

"Hence it is that we rarely light upon a work which commands our confidence, not merely by its research, but also by its grasp of the subject of which it treats. The volume before us is one of the happy few of this latter class, and it is on this account that the public favour will certainly wait upon it. We are moreover convinced that no effort has been spared by its authors, to render it a thoroughly efficient and trustworthy guide."—Law Journal.

"Magistrates will find a valuable handbook in Messrs. Greenwood and Martin's 'Magisterial and Police Guide,' of which a fresh Edition has just been published."—The Times.

"A very valuable introduction, treating of proceedings before Magistrates, and largely of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, is in itself a treatise which will repay perusal. We expressed our high opinion of the Guide when it first appeared, and the favourable impression then produced is increased by our examination of this Second Edition."—Law Times.

"For the form of the work we have nothing but commendation. We may say we have here our ideal law book. It may be said to omit nothing which it ought to contain."—Law Times.

"This handsome volume aims at presenting a comprehensive magisterial handbook for the whole of England. The mode of arrangement seems to us excellent, and is well carried out."—Solicitors' Journal.

"The Magisterial and Police Guide, by Mr. Henry Greenwood and Mr. Temple Martin, is a model work in its conciseness, and, so far as we have been able to test it, in completeness and accuracy. It ought to be in the hands of all who, as magistrates or otherwise, have authority in matters of police."—Daily News.

"This work is eminently practical, and supplies a real want. It plainly and concisely states the law on all points upon which Magistrates are called upon to adjudicate, systematically arranged, so as to be easy of reference. It ought to find a place on every Justice's table, and we cannot but think that its usefulness will speedily ensure for it as large a sale as its merits deserve."—Midland Counties Herald.

"The exceedingly arduous task of collecting together all the enactments on the subject has been ably and efficiently performed, and the arrangement is so methodical and precise that one is able to lay a finger on a Section of an Act almost in a moment. It is wonderful what a mass of information is comprised in so comparatively small a space. We have much pleasure in recommending the volume not only to our professional, but also to our general readers; nothing can be more useful to the public than an acquaintance with the outlines of magisterial jurisdiction and procedure."—Sheffield Post.

By NEWMAN WATTS,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Some recent cases in our law courts, which at the time attracted much public notice, have demonstrated the want of some clear and concise exposition of the powers and liabilities of promoters, and this task has been ably performed by Mr. Newman Watts."—Investor's Guardian.

"Mr. Watts has brought together all the leading decisions relating to promoters and directors, and has arranged the information in a very satisfactory manner, so as to readily show the rights of different parties and the steps which can be legally taken by promoters to further interests of new companies."—Daily Chronicle.

A COMPENDIUM OF ROMAN LAW,

Founded on the Institutes of Justinian ;

TOGETHER WITH

EXAMINATION QUESTIONS

SET IN THE UNIVERSITY AND BAR EXAMINATIONS

(WITH SOLUTIONS),

AND DEFINITIONS OF LEADING TERMS IN THE WORDS OF THE PRINCIPAL AUTHORITIES.

By GORDON CAMPBELL,

Of the Inner Temple, M.A., late Scholar of Exeter College, Oxford ; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge ; Author of "An Analysis of Austin's Jurisprudence, or the Philosophy of Positive Law."

"Mr. Campbell, in producing a compendium of the Roman law, has gone to the best English works already existing on the subject, and has made excellent use of the materials found in them. The volume is especially intended for the use of students who have to pass an examination in Roman law, and its arrangement with a view to this end appears very good. The existence of text-books such as this should do much to prevent the evil system of cramming."—Saturday Review.
